WILBUR READS BOGEY STORIES IN WAR ALARMS

Poisoning Nations Absurd, He Says.

By ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—"Bedtime bogey stories" for grownups, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur today pronounced the published prophecies of wholesale destruction of entire populations by poison gas, disease germs, and other novel agencies in "the next war."

"These statements are not true and are not justified by past history of present conditions," said the navy secretary. "The writers who seek to terrorize the people by the statement of the awful calamities of the 'next war' overlook the one fundamental principle of war that to have a war one must have a defense and the means of defense should be commensurate with the offense."

Game for Two to Play. "If poison gas can be used on one side, it can be used on the other, as Germany found out to her sorrow. If chemical warfare can be used on one side, it can be used on the other."

Moreover, the nation using disease germs as a means of offense cannot expect the effects of disease to be one side of the fighting line. You can't keep smallpox or any other disease on one side of a given line, and what will make the soldiers on one side of the line immune to disease will make the soldiers on the other side of the line immune.

Mr. Wilbur went on to say that the writers who present the terrible picture of poison gas and its effect in the next war overlook two fundamental facts.

Fallacies in Alarm Cries. "First," he said, "treaties have been made prohibiting the use of poison gas in the next war. These treaties have been concurred in by all great powers but one. If we are so pessimistic as to believe these treaties will not be lived up to, we should remember the world fundamental fact—that it is impossible to transport or to apply sufficient quantities of such poison gas to poison the whole population of cities or countries, even if it could be produced."

"The idea is ridiculous, and the question should be relegated to the field of bedtime stories of the bogey man who will get you if you don't watch out."

Can't Wipe Out Nations. "There is no doubt that modern warfare is a serious and frightful thing, and that unpreparedness for such war is inexcusable. Certainly the world war was terrible enough to stagger mankind, but an analysis of that war shows the absurdity of assuming that man would have either the will or the means to destroy whole nations."

The secretary ridiculed the visions of ships dropping poison bombs on sleeping cities, conquering as James O'Connell does.

LOOK OUT FOR THE BUZZSAW

Seize Three for Murder of O'Banion

Three mysterious arrests early this morning by Lieut. Albert Winge and his squad from the detective bureau may solve the murder of Dean O'Banion, gunman and beer runner. The trio were taken to the detective bureau, where they were placed incommunicado and the police refused to give out their names.

Immediately following the arrests Lieut. Winge and Sergt. John L. Sullivan started for Gary, Ind., to turn down a clew furnished by the arrest of the three men.

Lieut. Winge and his squad were touring the north side when at Cleveland and Lincoln avenues they saw a closed automobile speeding northward. They gave chase and at Belden avenue and Clark street forced the fugitive car to the curb.

Draw Guns but Surrender.

As they approached, the men in the car drew revolvers, but Winge and his aids had them covered. They surrendered.

The men, all Italians, were taken to the Hudson avenue police station, whence to the detective bureau and the bureau of identification. At the latter no record of former arrests was found. "They are three good arrests in connection with the O'Banion murder," Sergt. Peterson said. "I cannot say Johnny Torino, runner, now lying in the Jackson Park hospital with five gangster's bullets in his body; Hiroshi, Maxie, Davis, and Harry Miller, ancient feudists with O'Banion; Earl Welen, Vincent Drucco, Louis Alteria, the gunman who later offered to meet publicly O'Banion's slayer and shoot it out with him, and several others."

But the murderer was never found. The shield of silence protected the underworld murderers.

REPORTS THEFT OF $7,000 GEMS FROM HIS TRUNK

Jewels worth more than $7,000 were stolen from the trunk of Joseph Schneek, 1515 East 48th street, New York, somewhere between Hot Springs, Ark., and the Drake hotel, so Schneek reported to the detective bureau last night.

MANY ARE ARRESTED.

A dozen suspects were arrested and questioned—Al Brown, real name Al Capone, former owner of the "Four Deuces" dive at 2222 Wabash avenue; Johnny Torino, runner, now lying in the Jackson Park hospital with five gangster's bullets in his body; Hiroshi, Maxie, Davis, and Harry Miller, ancient feudists with O'Banion; Earl Welen, Vincent Drucco, Louis Alteria, the gunman who later offered to meet publicly O'Banion's slayer and shoot it out with him, and several others.

Mystery in Slaying.

O'Banion's slaying has been shrouded with mystery. This much became known to the police: In the little florist shop which gave an air of respectability to the suave two-gun man, a shop located in the shadow of the Holy Name cathedral, at 733 North State street, O'Banion and his partner, William P. Schofield, held forth.

Story of Shooting.

Afternoon came on and O'Banion was still busy. A great American Beauty case separated him from the main shop. Three men came in. One was tall and well dressed; the two flanking him were apparently Italians, short and swarthy. O'Banion came forward.

Stokes Here for Trial as Wife Defamer

W. E. D. Stokes, the aged millionaire New York hotel owner, arrived in Chicago yesterday to stand trial on the charge of conspiring to defame the character of his former wife, Helen Elwood Stokes. The trial will begin on Wednesday.

Stokes was accompanied by two women, his secretary, and a trained nurse. He went at once to a suite he had reserved at the Congress hotel.

The indictment of Stokes followed the trial in New York of his suit for divorce in which he was defeated. His wife was granted a decree on her counter charges. The testimony upon which his case principally depended was that of a number of persons, most of them colored, who were examined in Chicago and later in the New York trial. This evidence was intended to show that Mrs. Stokes' past life had been open to question.

Witnesses Retracted Testimony.

Later some of these witnesses retracted their testimony. The state now charges that there was a definite conspiracy on the part of Stokes and others to obtain false testimony to destroy his former wife's good name.

Stokes in Ill Health.

Mr. Stokes said he had decided to stand trial despite protests from his physicians that his health was so poor as to justify a further delay.

Stokes in Ill Health.

Mrs. Stokes, who has been in conference with Assistant State's Attorney W. W. Smith in Denver, is expected in the city before the trial opens.

BLIZZARD AND INTENSE COLD STOP DOG TEAMS

Fear Antitoxin May Be Frozen.

BULLETIN.

NOME, Alaska, Feb. 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—A blizzard is raging around the Bering sea coast today, the temperature hovering around 10 below zero and the wind increasing rapidly. There is no means of ascertaining the whereabouts of the dog team with the antitoxin serum. The time of its arrival here has been made uncertain.

The storm will probably make it dangerous to travel at night, due to the chances of getting lost, in which event the antitoxin serum might freeze, if it has not already frozen, and break the containers.

A new case of diphtheria was unofficially reported this morning. The victim is a white woman.

NOME, Alaska, Feb. 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—Early this morning dog teams and their drivers were placed at intervals a few miles apart on the trail into Nome to assist Leon, who was reported to be a member of the north, in relaying antitoxin serum over the final reaches of their journey into Nome some time tomorrow morning.

At Safety, twenty-one miles from Nome, Ed Rohm, with a fast racing team, is waiting, and he will make the last relay.

While the doctors are waiting for the serum two new cases of diphtheria, both children, have developed. This brings the total number of cases to twenty-seven. No new deaths have been reported.

Unknown Speeds Westward.

Late reports told of an unknown musher heading a team out of Katig Friday night. At noon he had passed Old Woman, fifty miles north of U. S. Lake, and late this afternoon he reached Unalakleet on North sound. After resting a short time to feed the dogs he sped on toward Nome with his precious charge of 300,000 units of antitoxin. He has been ordered to keep going until he meets Seppala. Unalakleet is approximately 200 miles by land, or 100 by cutting across Norton sound, from here.

Seppala was warned not to attempt to cross Norton sound owing to the treacherous ice which has been breaking away and drifting seaward.

It was not known whether Seppala headed the warning and circled Norton bay in an effort to reach the musher with the serum, or cut across the sound.

An erroneous report received yesterday said Seppala had left Katig. Word today, however, said Seppala was awaiting the dog team relays 160 miles out of Nome.

Flyer Makes Plans.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Feb. 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—Roy S. Darling, former navy flyer, left Anchorage yesterday afternoon for Fairbanks, where he will make preparations to drive a De Havilland airplane to Nome with an additional supply of antitoxin, shipped yesterday from Seattle and due at Fairbanks Feb. 7.

Darling will have as mechanic Sergt. Farwell of the army air service. The first break in a fortnight of temperatures ranging from 20 to 60 below zero came last night, accompanied by snow. If the warm wave extends along the Yukon river the aviators will face the peril of snowstorms.

ROB'S DRIVER OF TAXI, FLEES; SHOT BY POLICE

George Sparks, 3002 Ellis avenue, was shot twice in the right leg last night by a policeman during a running fight between Sparks and three patrolmen after he had robbed a Yellow cab driver.

Sparks hailed the driver at 26th and Ellis and told him to drive to 25th and Ellis. There Sparks offered a $5 bill in payment. When the driver, Jerome Graust, pulled out his bills to make change, Sparks grabbed the money, $15, and fled.

Graust called Patrolmen Kearney, Statut and Johnson and they gave chase. Sparks ran down an alley, fleeing at the policemen over his shoulder. Two bullets from Kearney's gun laid him low.

Hold Up Six and Take Two Days' Receipts

The spectacular exploits of the car barn bandits of 1903 were revived last night when seven armed men in an automobile held up and robbed the barns of the Chicago Surface Lines at 25th and Leavitt streets, fleeing with $8,000.

The robbery occurred at 2:30 o'clock this morning when the cashier charged with the collection of the day's receipts and three other men were on duty in the cashier's cage.

The barns are located in one of the loneliest parts of the city. Outside the cashier's cage were two conductors, Joseph Wallace, 2134 West 18th street, and Lewis Smolick, 2925 North Bernard street. Some of the bandits set upon these two conductors, beating them with blackjacks and pistol butts, while the others vaulted a ten foot partition and gained the cashier's cage.

Cashier Is Held Up.

While some of the robbers engaged themselves with the men outside the others turned to the cashier's office. The man in charge turned from counting the money which had been handed in by the conductors on the lines whose cars are parked in the barns, to find himself confronted by the robbers' pistols. Through his mind flashed a recollection of what had happened in 1903 when two employees of the company were killed in the effort to protect the company's funds. He made no resistance. The money, which had been placed in his keeping, amounting to some $8,000, was turned over to the robbers, who immediately reentered their car and fled.

Recall Famous Bandits Trio.

The robbery at the Leavitt and 25th street barns was the first from which the traction lines had suffered since the famous crime of Aug. 29, 1903, when Marx, Neidermeyer and Van Dine, all of whom afterwards paid for their crime on the gallows, held up the car barns of the Chicago City Railway company at 41st and State streets. In this holdup two employees of the traction company were killed and two others were wounded.

Later the car barn bandits were traced by detectives and one of them killed Detectives John Quinn and Otto Bauder while they were trying to arrest them. With their identity known Van Dine and Neidermeyer fled to the then neglected woods of Indiana, which at present are in the city limits of Gary. There in a dugout they fought it out with the police who endeavored to capture them, wounding two of their assailants, one of whom afterwards died.

They were captured only after their ammunition gave out. Taken into Chicago, regardless of the state laws, they made a confession before Herman Schuetzler, then assistant chief of police, and on its strength they fought it out with the police who endeavored to capture them, wounding two of their assailants, one of whom afterwards died.

EVANSTON THIEF RETURNS $1.00 TO VICTIM FOR FARE

A man carrying a brief case entered the deserted lobby of the Greenwood Inn, Greenwood boulevard and Hinman avenue, Evanston, after midnight yesterday. Edward Schnazal, night clerk, started toward the counter but returned to the switchboard to answer a telephone call.

When he faced the man again, he found himself confronted by a revolver. Schnazal was forced to step aside while the robber scooped $100 from the safe. He was made to climb into the robber's automobile.

The gunman then drove rapidly toward Chicago. At Calvary cemetery Schnazal pleaded he would have to walk back. The robber ordered him out of the car and gave him a dollar.

HERRIN DEATHS BY FEUD REACH A TOTAL OF 13

Strange Gunman Is Slain by Policemen.

While state military authorities are debating the project of establishing martial law in Herrin to crush out the series of murders and massacres that have occurred there, a recapitulation of Herrin homicides shows that thirteen have been slain and many wounded in the last twelve months. This is exclusive of twenty-one killed in the Herrin mine massacre of June 21, 1922.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Herrin, Ill., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—The body of a gunman—a stranger to Herrin—with a bullet in the heart, sprawled grotesquely on the floor of Herrin's principal hotel this morning, a policeman with a smoking pistol standing above.

This was the evidence offered to Maj. Robert W. Davis and two other agents of the adjutant general sent here to make an inquiry into the need of further martial law, when they came into the lobby of the Lyman hotel after the gunman and two policemen had shot it out.

Charges were freely made by klanmen on the streets today that the man had been imported by forces favorable to the Sheriff Galligan-Judge E. N. Bowen faction of the anti-klan enemies.

Wore Galligan's Cap.

At the inquest this afternoon it was testified that the gunman, known only as Joe Phillips, had been seen in conference with Justice of the Peace Bowen and had made the county jail at Marion, where Sheriff Galligan presides, his lounging place for several days.

Furthermore, the cap worn by Phillips when he died with his boots on bore Galligan's name on the band—the sheriff claiming that it had been stolen from him.

Charges were made before the jury that Phillips had been brought here to take the place of Ora Thomas, leader in the anti-klan forces who was killed in a fight with G. Glenn Young, in which Young and two klanmen also were killed a week ago yesterday.

Witnesses told investigators that Phillips, who was later named also as Bill Howard, originally of Hicknell, Ind., swaggered into the Lyman early this morning. Two companions were with him and all had been drinking.

Inquires for Policemen.

In bed overhead were Maj. Davis and the two lieutenants sent here to take the place of Ora Thomas, leader in the anti-klan forces who was killed in a fight with G. Glenn Young, in which Young and two klanmen also were killed a week ago yesterday.

Witnesses told investigators that Phillips, who was later named also as Bill Howard, originally of Hicknell, Ind., swaggered into the Lyman early this morning. Two companions were with him and all had been drinking.

Lines Up Hotel Men.

"I'm here to raise hell and I'm agin' to do it plenty," the gunman declared, taking a swipe from a pint bottle. He returned to the lobby, and, flourishing his gun, compelled Stockenrider, Ray Marlowe, a bellboy, and Clayton Bolinot, a hotel guest, to line up before the cigar counter.

For several minutes he amused himself by thrusting his gun at them and threatening to shoot "if they moved an eyelash."

Then he strode into the café, with one companion, the other staying at the wheel of a car outside. Walters dived under the tables and Phillips kept on through to the kitchen and demanded of the cook where all the "guns and cartridges are."

Policer Here to the Rescue.

Policeman Jim Stephens walked in. "Turn over that gun!" he ordered quietly, his hands at his sides.

A shot of flame from the desperado's gun was the answer. It struck Stephens.

and chest. He leaped at the gunman, described as a "baldy" type, and grappled with him.

Followed a fight such as this, the flapper heart in the movie, but this time death was for the loser and both knew it. Chairs and tables in the path of the sweating, heaving men clattered over.

They slammed to the floor and rolled about, Phillips seeking for a chance to shoot. He fired a second shot, and it came close to the policeman's head.

Stephens, weakened from loss of blood, was succumbing to the strength of his antagonist. But at that instant there was a third shot. It was from the gun of Stephens' partner, Police-man Whitson, who heard the firing and came on the run.

With a groan, the giant loomed his hold and collapsed. In a moment he was dead. Whitson's bullet, entering the back, had plowed through the body and emerged in the center of the chest.

At the inquest, two witnesses testified to seeing the stranger about the streets yesterday in company with Justice Bowen.

One theory, promulgated by klanmen, is that the stranger invaded Herrin for the purpose of "getting" Glenn Fowler, klan follower and palibearer at the Young funeral. Fowler declared the man telephoned shortly before the shooting, saying, "I'm Deputy Phillips of Springfield and I've got a warrant for you. Come uptown." Fowler ignored the message.

Galligan Denies Responsibility. "I guess my enemies will try to turn this affair into a knock against me," declared Sheriff Galligan today. "But it is the exact truth that I had no more to do with that man's being in Williamson county than you did."

Galligan said that Phillips had been introduced at the jail by Justice of the Peace Bowen.

"I paid little attention to him," said the sheriff, "but I remember he said he was a former policeman upstate and that he was now doing a little work for the government."

Judge Bowen was not home tonight. His friends said he had been called to Eldorado, Ill., by sickness of relatives, but over the long distance telephone Mrs. Bowen said at Eldorado that her husband had left there for Chicago. She did not know the nature of his business in Chicago.

Say Bowen Was Guide. It was learned last night that at the inquest into the death of Phillips today it was testified that Judge Bowen Saturday had pointed out Glenn Fowler, klanman, to the gunman on Herrin's main street.

It was a little later that the stranger called up Fowler and told him to come to the police station and submit to arrest. The grand jury meeting this week will be asked to decide if it was a plot to lure Fowler to his death.

No one except officials and witnesses was allowed near the morgue during the inquest. The jury praised the bravery of Policemen Whitson and Stephens and exonerated them from all blame.

It is reported that State's Attorney Arlie Bowler is preparing to present to the Williamson county grand jury the coming week information growing out of the shooting which will involve local officials said to be foes of the klan.

Davis to Make Report Today. Maj. Davis passed the day checking up on the latest shooting preliminary to his report in Springfield tomorrow on whether or not soldiers should take charge of the government of this blood-steeped town. Sheriff Galligan, who had planned to go before Gov. Small and Adj. Gen. Black tomorrow and back up in person his plea for troops, decided tonight to send a representative instead.

A committee of Herrin citizens is preparing to confer with Springfield authorities without delay concerning the request for martial law. It is reported. Which side of the argument the delegation represents was not learned.

Anti-klanmen and many who profess neutrality declare a strictly enforced martial rule for an extended period is the sole possible answer in Williamson county. They declare complete disarmament of "klan gunmen."

Death Score in Herrin Stands 9 Klansmen, 3 Foes, 1 in Doubt

Herrin, Ill., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Thirteen men have been shot to death in Herrin in the klan and anti-klan battle which came in the wake of the Herrin massacre in which twenty-one men were murdered. The massacre was on June 21, 1922. Thus far the score of dead is nine klansmen, and three anti-klanmen, with the latest victim, shot last night, not positively identified, but declared by klanmen to have been anti. No one has been convicted of any of the deaths.

There were three battles in the town preceding last night's conflict. They were:

FEB. 3, 1924. Caesar Cagle—Klanman and constable. Shot in street fight in which city police opposed county officers. The fight followed liquor raids by S. Glenn Young.

MAY 24, 1924. Jack Skelcher—Anti-klanman, killed when city police attempted to arrest him. He was accused of being one of those who fired on the auto of S. Glenn Young, wounding Young and blinding his wife.

AUG. 26, 1924. Sheriff Galligan's men clashed with klanmen in a pitched battle following hearings in the trial of those accused of killing Cagle. The case was nolle prossed by State's Attorney Delos Duty, anti-klanman. In the fight six when they represent as usurpers of authority by virtue of "illegal" gun-toting permits, could be accomplished in time by a military regime, and this complete disarmament alone can ever stop the blood letting.

It's Klan Against Sheriff. Many of this professed belief, however, do not look with favor upon the present sheriff's administration, expressing a belief that the resignation of Galligan would help in establishing peace. But just as many more, perhaps, protest the elimination, under fire, of the sheriff would mean virtually a surrender of the law enforcement machinery of the county to the klan. Tomorrow night the city council meets and is expected, with a klan majority, to discuss Galligan's plea for troops as well as the police situation. It is predicted that the council will discharge Chief of Police Matt Walker, his son Harry, and Patrolman Lisenby. They were appointed with klan indorsement, but have since become bitter foes of the klan.

John Ford, unelected to make way for Chief Walker, probably will be given his job back.

Two Inquiries Coldest. The council committee will hold its meeting today in the city hall while the inquest is in progress.

Coroner Wolf asserted last night he will draw his jury of six from the business men of Hyde Park living as near the scene of the fire as possible.

Among the witnesses to be examined during the doubt, the coroner said, will be a supposed drug addict who lived in the building and whom the police have had under strict surveillance since Saturday night.

"I told the police to watch this man," the coroner said.

Warns of Fire Peril. Battalion Chief Horace McLane of the fire department, who directed the fighting of the fire and the rescue of many persons, later made an inspection of the ruins and told the coroner many startling facts about the blaze and the possibility of others like it.

The fire department official said, among other things, that there is inadequate inspection, both by the city building department and by the fire department fire prevention bureau. He asserted the fire department knows there are hundreds of overcrowded rooming houses, mere fire traps, but can do nothing about them, because there are no laws under which to act.

Built for Eight Families. "We know where most of them are," Chief McLane said, "but we can't do anything about it. This building was built for an eight apartment building, calculated to hold four to a family, or approximately thirty-two persons. We are reliably informed that it had been converted into a thirty-six kitchenette apartment building and that there were house in it almost 100 persons."

"We must have a law under which to proceed against the keepers of such fire traps if we are to do anything about it."

"This tragedy has happened," Ald. Mills said. "It is always the same old story. Investigation—and who's to blame. Always the same—and nothing comes of it, no lasting results."

"We want and hope to make this different."

Funerals of the six victims have been taken charge of, excepting in the case of Mrs. Doris Jones, by relatives, and they are to be separate. Mrs. Jones' identity remains a mystery.

Two Investigations will be started this morning into the fire that early Saturday wrecked the interior of a rooming house on Blackstone avenue, near the Midway, and cost six lives.

Both inquiries will have two objects. One will be to fix the responsibility, the other to evolve and recommend an ordinance to avert future tragedies of the same sort.

Coroner Oscar Wolf opens the inquest at 10 o'clock in the county building. Ald. Wyle W. Mills (37th) will bring about the other when he requests Ald. Dorsey Crowe to call at once a meeting of the schools, fire, and civil service committee of the city council, of which Ald. Mills is a member and Ald. Crowe is the chairman.

The council committee will hold its meeting today in the city hall while the inquest is in progress.

Coroner Wolf asserted last night he will draw his jury of six from the business men of Hyde Park living as near the scene of the fire as possible.

Among the witnesses to be examined during the doubt, the coroner said, will be a supposed drug addict who lived in the building and whom the police have had under strict surveillance since Saturday night.

"I told the police to watch this man," the coroner said.

Warns of Fire Peril. Battalion Chief Horace McLane of the fire department, who directed the fighting of the fire and the rescue of many persons, later made an inspection of the ruins and told the coroner many startling facts about the blaze and the possibility of others like it.

The fire department official said, among other things, that there is inadequate inspection, both by the city building department and by the fire department fire prevention bureau. He asserted the fire department knows there are hundreds of overcrowded rooming houses, mere fire traps, but can do nothing about them, because there are no laws under which to act.

Built for Eight Families. "We know where most of them are," Chief McLane said, "but we can't do anything about it. This building was built for an eight apartment building, calculated to hold four to a family, or approximately thirty-two persons. We are reliably informed that it had been converted into a thirty-six kitchenette apartment building and that there were house in it almost 100 persons."

50 WORKERS AT STATEVILLE LAID OFF; NO FUNDS

Fifty civilian technicians and seven men engaged in the construction of the new penitentiary buildings at Stateville, near Joliet, were laid off Saturday for lack of funds, it was learned yesterday.

The state has already spent some $2,000,000 on the new institution which houses hardly more than half of the prisoners sentenced to Joliet. The penitentiary commission, consisting of James A. Patten, Ira Copley and the governor's son, Leslie Small, went to Springfield last week to appeal for an additional appropriation of $4,000,000 to complete the work.

While this sum will be scaled down, it was believed, a considerable part of it will be appropriated. The governor has announced his intention of abolishing the commission now that the penitentiary has been partly constructed and the plans completed.

THIRTY CENTS A DAY WILL BRING YOU $1,000. Suppose you are 30 years old. You open a Savings and Life Insurance Account in the Harris Trust and Savings Bank with a deposit of $3.70, which represents saving less than thirty cents a day for one month. You deposit $3.70 each month for 120 months, when you will receive over $1,000 in cash. If you do not live to complete your deposit, the insurance company agrees to pay your beneficiary $1,000 and the bank will pay the balance in the savings account. At the end of the eighth year, for example, the total amount received by your beneficiary in case of death would be over $1,600. The rates vary according to your age, and you may save any amount from $1.00 to $25.00 by depositing a proportionately larger amount monthly. Inquire at Harris Trust and Savings Bank, 115 West Monroe St., for details.—Adv.

ARRAIGN 4 TODAY FOR MURDER OF RUSSELL DICKEY

Confessed Train Plotters
Face Two Hearings.

Due process of law commences to-day against the four men who have confessed complicity in the attempted train robbery that resulted in the murder of Russell S. Dickey, express messenger on the crack Viking train of the C. & N. W. railway, on Dec. 20.

The four — Policemen Bernard P. Smith of the detective bureau, Ralph McKee, Edward J. Smith of Milwaukee, who planned the crime, and Bernard Mylin, also of Milwaukee, who aided Dickey — will be taken before a coroner's jury, then arraigned before Justice of the Peace A. E. Smith at Highland Park.

The railroad detectives and Detective Lieutenant John Norton, who have been implicated for their go-between work in ferreting out the plotters, are now up to Judge and jury. They say they believe the death penalty will be meted out.

All Equally Guilty.
All are equally guilty in the eyes of the law, they assert. Policemen Smith, whose part in the crime was to assist in the escape, being liable to the same punishment as can be given Mylin. They say there is no doubt of a conviction, the question of punishment being one for a jury of Lake county citizens to decide.

Dickey's body was brought to Chicago on the train where he gave up his life rather than the $100,000 in his trust. Therefore the inquiry called in Chicago, and when the first session was held the detectives asked for time in which to investigate.

Coroner Oscar Wolf has notified the jurors to assemble today at the Western Undertaking rooms, 228 West Randolph street. The four prisoners will be taken there. They will be advised that if they testify what they say may be used against them at later proceedings. If they await themselves of their constitutional rights to refuse to give evidence against themselves their confessions will be read to the jury.

Hearing at Highland Park.
The coroner's verdict rendered, warrants issued yesterday by Judge Smith will be served upon them. At Highland Park the court will give them a preliminary hearing, the customary process preceding indictment by the grand jury.

The venue is in Lake county, as the murder was committed at or near Ravinia, and under the law the trial must be in the county in which the crime was committed. Cpl. A. E. Smith, state's attorney of Lake county, will therefore have charge of the prosecution of the Chicago policeman and the three railroad employees, two of whom have residences and families in Milwaukee.

Mrs. Edward Smith, wife of the man credited with planning the train robbery, came to Chicago yesterday, but was not permitted to see her husband. The four prisoners were being held at the detective bureau, where, until he was stripped of his star, Saturday night, Bernard Smith was a detective.

Policeman's Family Prostrate.
His father, Serg. Theodore Smith, for many years assigned to the detective bureau but at present at the Summerdale station, was dangerously ill yesterday, the shock of his son's unmaking having complicated a minor illness. The wife of the policeman, handily, with her infant child hugged closely to her, and the aged mother were both prostrated.

All had such pride in Bernard, 26 years old, who had advanced rapidly in his three years on the police force. "He didn't do it. Some one else must have led him into it," both bewailed. Their ray of hope was that they have not yet heard the side of the son and husband.

Sunday afternoon peace filled the Evanston public library yesterday. A woman chatted confidentially with a modern youth at a center table. In the corner two crossword fans pored over a dictionary.

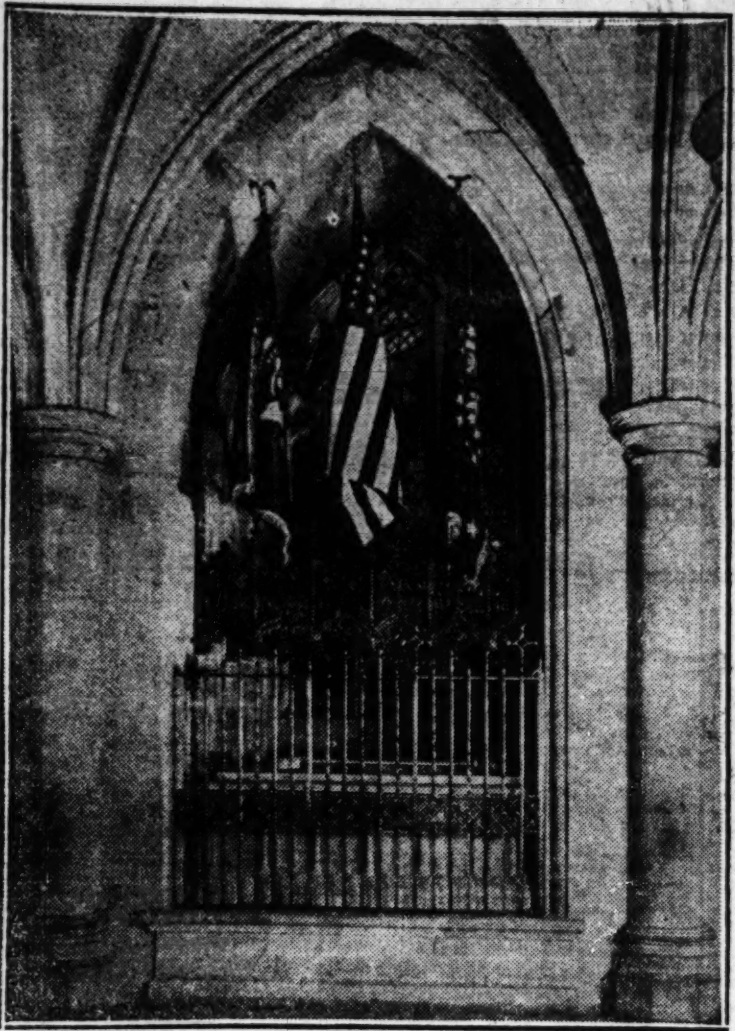

The door opened and a man strode in. He pointed a dramatic finger at the woman talking to the young man. That's my wife; at last I have found you! he announced.

The woman fled outside and they struggled. Special Policeman A. A. Brown arrested the man, who gave his name as Thomas W. Scott, 846 Lake-side place, a Chicago private detective. The wife, Ida, from whom he has been estranged for twelve years, is a student in the Garrett Biblical institute, connected with Northwestern university. Scott was later released and joined his wife. They walked off amicably.

N. U. FRATERNITY MAN VANISHES; 'POLICE SEEK HIM

Disappearance last Saturday noon of William W. Scott, former Northwestern university student and son of W. R. Scott, retired south side banker, now living in Los Angeles, was reported to the police early this morning by Scott's brothers in the Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity, at whose Northwestern university chapter house, 645 University place, he lived.

Harold Bleichman and Roland A. By of the fraternity told the police that Scott was in the habit of carrying considerable money and expressed the fear that he has been slain by robbers. Scott is a salesman employed by the Federal Electric company at 8700 South State street and left there Saturday noon with O. S. Burke, salesman of the company. He dropped Burke at the 51st street elevated station.

Scott and Bleichman had an engagement for Saturday evening at the home of Miss Margaret Gerrie, 5600 Woodlawn avenue, but Scott failed to appear. He had another engagement with a fraternity brother yesterday and when he failed to keep that the chapter became alarmed.

Palmer E. Anderson, chief field agent of the internal revenue department, said a preliminary investigation of the fire in the Railway Terminal warehouse, 444-453 West Grand avenue, did not indicate the fire had been started by incendiaries in the rooms in which liquor was stored by the government. The inquiry will continue for several days, he added. The total loss was estimated at $500,000.

MRS. LULU QUIGLEY DIES; WAS STRUCK BY I. C. TRAIN SATURDAY

Injuries received Saturday, when she was struck by an Illinois Central railroad train, yesterday proved fatal to Mrs. Lulu Quigley. She was 38 years old and was the wife of a railroad man, living at the Windsor Park hotel.

Mrs. Quigley was crossing the tracks at East 76th street and Exchange avenue on her way to the hotel when she was struck by the train, a suburban express.

For some time the victim was unidentified, but women friends finally determined that she was Mrs. Quigley, a fact verified later by her husband.

N. Y. BLUE LAW BILL AIMS BLOW AT EVERYTHING

But Would Allow You to Be Buried on Lord's Day.

New York, Feb. 1.—[Special.]—The Lord's Day alliance made public today the text of its new Sunday law drafted for introduction into the state legislature, prohibiting paid Sunday baseball, racing, concerts, and other public sports and all processions and parades, "excepting only funeral processions and the actual burial of the dead."

Golf is permitted, but "the employment of caddies, attendants, and other help about golf links" is prohibited. The purpose of this prohibition, according to an explanatory statement, "is to correct what has become a great evil by golf associations and other amusement organizations employing children, young people, and others about these pleasure resorts."

Paid Sunday football, basketball, tennis, hockey, lacrosse, polo, and other public sports, exercises, and shows, indoors and out of doors, are prohibited, and "each individual participating in such shall be liable to the penalties hereinafter provided."

Candy and Soda Barred.
The law would close delicatessens on Sunday and prohibit the sale of candy, soda water or other refreshments, and every kind of trafficking except in "milk, drugs, medicines, surgical instruments, and gasoline."

The bill would make it a misdemeanor for amateurs to play baseball or for boys to play catch on Sunday before 2 o'clock "in any city or town," and it provides for local option on the question of whether they may play baseball on Sunday after 2 o'clock.

Paid Sunday concerts, vocal or instrumental, are forbidden. Paid Sunday "debates and discussions" are forbidden. Dancing, roller and ice skating in any public or private place for which a fee is charged is prohibited.

Can't Have Auto Repaired.
All repair work in garages is prohibited. Barbers would be forbidden to work at all. In general, "all trades, manufactures, agricultural or mechanical employments" are prohibited on Sundays, except "works of necessity."

Sunday shooting and hunting are specifically forbidden. Escaped today, a dozen deputy sheriffs were sent out to search for the trio.

BIG ROCK HOLDS CAVE EXPLORER IN DEEP CREVICE

Foot Caught Since Friday Morning.

Cave City, Ky., Feb. 1.—Imprisoned in a narrow crevice in Sand cave, 300 feet from the entrance, for more than sixty hours, Floyd Collins, 35 years old, tonight directed the work of rescuers who pecked away with chisels at a huge boulder that fell upon his foot Friday morning while he was exploring a new passage in the cave.

As the hours grew he begged the workers to tie a rope around his body and pull him out even if it pulled off his foot.

Expected to Be Rescued.
The last rescuing party to come out tonight said he was cheerful and expressed the belief that he would be rescued soon.

All day long workers using chisels chipped small pieces of flint from the boulder, while others squirmed through the long passage, taking food and coffee.

The experiment of heating the rock in an effort to break it faster was tried, but this proved slow work.

Not Found for 24 Hours.
Collins went down into the passage alone Friday morning. He had descended eighty feet and then crawled along the narrow, crooked crevice some distance. Turning to leave the cave, his foot jarred loose some rock. A boulder of between six and seven tons fell, pinning one of his feet between it and another rock.

Face downward in the icy mud, he lay for twenty-four hours before rescuers found him. But the boulder was immovable.

The fact that Collins is facing the entrance to the cave makes it impossible for anyone to get to his feet. The passage is so small he cannot untie his shoelaces or wiggle loose his foot.

FIRST 32 DAYS OF 1925 RECORD 49 AUTO DEATHS

Doctors List Week Old
Baby as Victim.

Three persons died yesterday as the result of injuries due to automobiles. That makes forty-nine deaths in thirty-two days of the new year.

One of the dead is a week old baby, whose death caused, surgeons at the Pullman hospital reported, by prenatal injuries received when its mother was struck Jan. 20 by a truck driven by David Clobesky, 1923 Shelby court. The mother is Mrs. Gertrude Wright, 29, of 714 Webster avenue.

Driver Seized by Police.
Ludwig Etkorn, 79, of 2046 West 22nd place, died in the county hospital of injuries received when he was struck by an auto driven by Peter Dubikart, 648 West 119th street. Dubikart was arrested.

Injuries received Jan. 21 caused the death yesterday in the Peoples' hospital of Andrew Ulasek, 50, of 3816 South Hermitage avenue. Police will rearrest Albert Valkena, 1340 South Ashland avenue, whose car hit Ulasek.

Five other persons may die from injuries received yesterday. Miss Jennie Jones, 40, of 4647 Lake Park avenue, was struck by a car driven by Edward Praebie, 1003 North Lockwood avenue. She suffered internal injuries and five fractured ribs. Miss Agnes Lindstrom, 46, of 1217 North Parkside avenue, received several broken ribs and possibly internal injuries, when she was hit by the car of John Stobka, 958 North Racine avenue.

An auto ride through Mount Greenwood early yesterday from cabaret to cabaret brought death near for two others, one of them a woman. A small sedan, owned by William H. Caddington, 6419 South Bishop street, rushing Caddington and four friends to a west side road house, the police say, crashed into a car driven by E. F. Fladek, 3549 West 61st place, and then piled up in the ditch.

Mount Greenwood police rushed to 111th street and St. Louis avenue, where the collision occurred, and pulled the injured from the wreck.

Thrown Clear of Wreck.
Caddington and John P. Stephan, 7027 Wentworth avenue, were thrown clear and escaped unhurt. Two sisters,

HANDS OF DEATH

The hands of the clock indicate the number of deaths by autos, guns, and moonshine in Cook county since Jan. 1. Yesterday was the thirty-second day of 1925.

Emma Reiner, 714 West 45th street, and Edna Reiner, of the same address, and Walter Olson, 6522 Union avenue, were buried under the wreck. Emma Reiner suffered a fractured hip and internal injuries and probably will die. Her sister Edna suffering a fractured skull and severe cuts.

Olsen also is said to be dying in the Pullman hospital. He suffered a skull fracture and internal injuries. Injuries that may prove fatal were suffered last night by James Windel, 12 South Peoria street. His skull was fractured and he received internal injuries when hit by an auto that sped away. The accident occurred at Adams and Sangamon street. Windel was taken to the county hospital.

Strategy Saves Woman from Robbery by Two
A subterfuge saved Miss Elizabeth Brown, lodging house keeper at 153 West Grand avenue, from being robbed last night. Two young men, each with a revolver, entered and asked where she kept her money. "In the kitchen," she replied. When they went in to search for it she ran out and summoned the police. The robbers discovered her ruse and fled before the detectives arrived.

GREEKS CRY FOR WAR AMID RUIN OF PAST GLORY

Meet at Jupiter's Shrine to Denounce Turks.

ATHENS, Feb. 1.—(By Associated Press.)—An imposing mass meeting was held this afternoon at the ruins of Jupiter's temple in protest against the expulsion of the Greek Catholics from the city. The crowd, subsequently, surrounded the streets, shouting for vengeance against the Turks. Special measures were taken to protect the Turkish legation.

The tide of public indignation is rising throughout the country, and everywhere associations and public bodies of all kinds, religious and lay, are passing resolutions of protest, against the Greek government of the expulsion of the Greek Catholics from the city. The entire nation in deploring the satisfaction for the expulsion of the Greek Catholics from Turkey by the Turkish government.

Whether the Greek representative in Ankara will be recalled depends on Turkey's reply to the Greek note.

Greeks Cheer Expelled Priest.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Most Rev. Constantine, ecumenical patriarch of the Greek Catholic church, who was expelled from Constantinople, was given an impressive reception when he arrived in Saloniki, Greece, tonight, says a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph.

The authorities of Saloniki, the leaders of the Greek Catholics and the Jews and an immense crowd of the populace were present. Numerous cries for vengeance against the Turks were raised.

The patriarch will reside on Mount Athos, the famous "Holy mountain," eighty miles southeast of Saloniki.

(Copyright, 1925, by The Chicago Tribune.)

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Official British opinion on the outcome of the Greek-Turkish crisis continues to hold that action by the allied governments is very likely to be necessary, according to statements from reliable sources here tonight.

Greek officials in London regard the expulsion of the Greek patriarch as a Turkish breach of a solemn promise. They say the Turkish government gave its word that the patriarch would be reinstated on condition that he refrain from taking any part in politics.

Influential Turks in London connected with the Ankara government simply reiterate the argument that the patriarch is an exchangeable person, under the treaty of Lausanne, owing to his residence in Constantinople, and his expulsion does not imply abolition of the patriarchate.

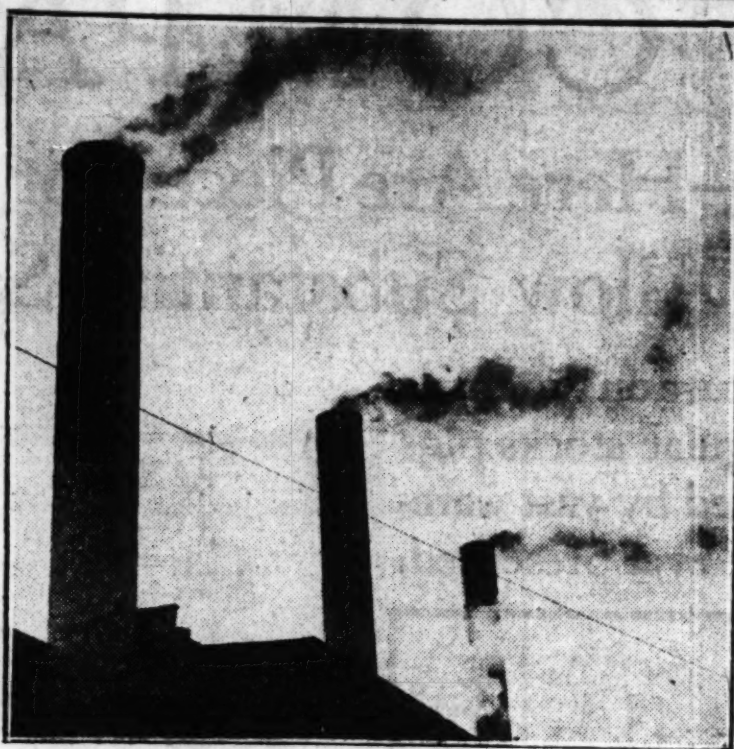

Hampers Case at The Hague.

Diplomatic circles in London point significantly to the fact that the present negotiations at The Hague between Turkey and Greece over the exchange of populations is bound to be more or less paralyzed by the Turkish action regarding the patriarch. It is also thought that, while the allied governments signatory to the Lausanne treaty probably will take some measure, little practical effect is expected from such a move because the French government is anti-clerical and Italy is not likely to take up the defense of the Greek orthodox church.

CAB DRIVER IS ROBBED.

MISSING PIANIST FOUND, GUARDED AT FRIEND'S HOME

Ethel Leginska Had a Nervous Breakdown.

New York, Feb. 1.—(Special.)—Ethel Leginska, missing pianist, has been found, practically a prisoner in the home of a friend.

She is suffering from an acute nervous breakdown, and friends are guarding her night and day.

Police admitted tonight that Miss Leginska had been located, but they declined to reveal her whereabouts, except to say that she is being well looked after "at the home of a friend in the outskirts of the city."

Disappears as Audience Waits.

Miss Leginska disappeared last Monday night, while 2,000 persons waited in Carnegie hall for her to give an advertised concert program. At that time her secretary expressed the fear that some mishap had befallen her, but a search of hospitals and accident records failed to show any trace of her.

Leginska has always been the possessor of a highly emotional nature and a lot of temperament. Once before, on the eve of a concert, she disappeared, and was gone for a considerable period before her friends, and even her press agent, knew where she was.

Nervous Condition Blamed.

Her most recent disappearance is known to have been due to her nervous condition. Whether her mind has been affected seriously could not be ascertained. Police Captain Ayres, who personally directed the search for Miss Leginska, declined to reveal what he learned at the house where she has been located. The captain said he had given his word that details would be withheld from the public, inasmuch as Miss Leginska is in no immediate danger and is being properly cared for.

PICTURES TELL LONDON ABOUT DIRT IN THE AIR

Chicago May Adopt the Same Plan.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Perhaps the council air pollution committee, when it really gets started, will visualize so vividly the importance of smoke, dirt, soot and other impurities in the atmosphere that the public will attempt to do its part in obtaining pure air.

London, famous for its fog, measures its air pollution as Chicago measures the amount of dirt it collects weekly, monthly, and yearly from streets and alleys. Then, by the use of graphing, London gives the public a glance the amount of dirt in the air for any day or part of it tested. Chicago is not that far along. Its interest to date has been confined to the "smoke nuisance," but has not attempted to curb other air impurities.

Even Pittsburgh appears to be farther advanced in the investigation of air pollution than Chicago.

Pittsburgh Follows London. Pittsburgh has made a test of the shoot-fall, as has been done for years in the British Isles. Chicago, under the health commissioner, is now experimenting along this line. This test measures the dirt, cinders, soot and other solids which fall from the air. London now is attempting to measure the amount of dirt in the air. The vapor pressure hygrometer has been in use for some time. That gives the relative humidity of the air. The weather reports each day carry the percentage. Moisture obstructs light and therefore tends to produce a fog. Usage in the federal weather bureau requires that the relative humidity shall be 90 per cent before there can be a fog. That means that the water in the air obstructs the light.

It's Fog, British Say.

When smoke, and dirt shuts off the light it is technically not a fog in the classification of the weather bureau. The English apparently take the view that dirt in the air in sufficient quantities may be a fog.

To measure, chart and learn the composition of a fog they use the vapor pressure hygrometer. That tells the amount of moisture. Then a contrast photometer is brought out to measure the dirt. This is used in connection with a search light. The photometer measures the obstruction to light, which indicates the density of the fog.

The Londoners graph this density for different hours of the day. By eliminating the water obstruction in the air they can graph the dirt obstruction. That system vividly portrays the amount of dirt in the air.

SUCCESSOR TO TROTSKY FEELS COMMUNIST AX

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
BERLIN, Feb. 1.—After overthrowing Leon Trotsky, M. Stalin is forging ahead to supreme autocratic control of Russia, his newest victim being M. Frunze, M. Trotsky's successor. M. Frunze's nomination was announced two weeks ago, and today the Russian embassy here officially informed THE TRIBUNE that "M. Frunze was dismissed since his unreliability, in so far as the communistic party was concerned, has been proven. M. Zinoviev has been nominated as his successor."

Pushman's Oriental Rugs

new importation of Anatolian
priced 25% less than is usual for rugs of this quality

One of the most fortunate purchases we ever made permits us to mark this new importation of 83 Anatolian Oriental Rugs at least 25 per cent less than we ever before sold rugs of this quality. At these prices they cost only a little more than the best Wilton rugs.

Anatolian rugs are one of the most dependable grades of the moderately priced Orientals. Woven in the district around Smyrna, of a very fine quality wool, their wearing qualities are exceptional. Only by seeing them can one appreciate what unusual values these are.

The importation consists of a large range of sizes (including some of the odd sizes so hard to find), in a splendid variety of designs, on backgrounds of rose, mulberry and blue. A few of the pieces are mentioned below:

WHY THE DEVER PLAN SHOULD BE TRIED.

The surface street car ordinances expire in just two years. When they do, $110,000,000 in bonds mature. It is agreed that in the situation in which the companies will find themselves they cannot refinance. The operation of street cars must continue, but it will be by day to day authority or permission.

It is as certain as anything in the future can be that the ordinances will not be renewed when they expire. It is probable, if not certain, that even if another twenty year grant were given, money could not be raised on a franchise that short. Illinois law does not permit the granting of a franchise for a longer period.

The city has the right to take over the properties by paying the contract price for them. It has no money. The ordinances provide that another company may be granted the franchise, but that company must pay the contract price plus a bonus.

What the city is facing is a condition to mature in just two years in which street cars will be operated without a definite franchise or without any franchise, and that some of the holders of the securities will throw the companies into a federal receivership.

When operation by a receivership would end no one knows, and the chances are that operation under receivership would be bad. No extensions and no relief for unserved or inadequately served parts of the city could be had, because no money would be available. It probably would be the worst condition Chicago traction could get in, and unless something is done it is bearing directly down on the city.

Mayor Dever's traction ordinance is in the city council. It has been prepared by Ald. U. S. Schwartz, Corporation Counsel Busch, and other advisers of the mayor. In its essential provisions it has been agreed to by the bankers representing security holders.

Briefly, it provides that the city shall undertake to purchase the properties by offering Schwartz certificates. It is optional with the present security holders to take them, but with the indorsement of the bankers' committee they will be glad to do so. The interest on these certificates and the retirement of the principal is guaranteed by the earnings of the lines. The period which shall be covered by this process of retiring the private interest and establishing the city in complete ownership has not, as we understand at this writing, been definitely decided.

The control is given to a board of which the security holders name three, the mayor three, and three are to be chosen from a list offered by the mayor, and selected by the security holders. As the city's possession increases, the city's representation will increase. One proposal is that when the city owns 51 per cent of the lines the board of control shall consist of four appointed by the mayor and three by the security holders.

It is urged in support of this plan that the city will not pay out a cent for the title. It will be acquired out of the earnings. There has been controversy over the price to be paid. It is a matter of contract in the ordinance that it shall be the value assessed when the ordinances were adopted, by the council and by referendum, plus amounts added during the life of the franchise and credited to capital under the supervision of the city. That amount is $12,500,000. An appraisal was agreed to by the city and made by three engineers, one representing the city. All three agreed that the present value was as high or higher than the contract value.

Mayor Dever says that the properties are in the best physical condition of any street railway property in the United States. The city would buy them at the contract price, and the bankers say that this contract price must be paid if the city is to look for capital on street railway security, that to break one agreement would destroy credit.

Mayor Dever and his supporters promise subways and general street railway extensions and improvements as soon as the ordinance has been adopted by the people and as soon as the Supreme court has passed on the right of the city to issue the certificates. A test case of that is promised immediately on the adoption of the ordinance. The administration says that it is its hope to have improvements, including subways, on their way within six months after the adoption of the ordinance.

This Tribune has never been much concerned as to the title to properties which are now giving the city transportation. That never seemed to this newspaper to be the essential thing in Chicago traction. The essential thing was what the city did not have—more, better and quicker means of traversing this great metropolitan area. Subways, elevated extensions, surface line extensions, additions to service wherever required.

Until these things were begun we saw no hope. Mayor Dever agrees that these are the real needs, but he is convinced that none of them can be obtained until the pending ordinance is passed. As soon as that is done he is able, he says, to give Chicago the improvements of which it is in such desperate and increasing need.

We believe his plan for the acquisition and management of the lines is as practical as any which can be presented. If the certificates can be issued, and if they will be accepted, not only for the gradual purchase of the lines but to provide money for construction, the city may make the long delayed beginning of a traction rebirth. The advantages of that would be incalculable. It is beyond even optimistic vision to see what would happen to this great city now straining at its opportunities if it saw the beginning of real transportation.

The mayor's plan contemplates the raising of at least $400,000,000 by issuance of the certificates, for subway construction and for transportation extensions in sections which badly need them. If the city council passes the ordinance it will be submitted to the people in April. It may be the dawn of a new era. We think the council should pass it and submit it to the people. There will be full discussion. Mayor Dever is convinced he has the solution and can demonstrate it to the people. He should have that chance, and the people should have their say.

We cannot drift in this matter without getting on the rocks. THE TRIBUNE would have had subway building started five or ten years ago, but it confesses that as matters stand at this time it sees nothing but an inflation of politics in traction for the next few years unless some plan as the mayor advocates prevails. A federal receivership then stares the city in the face. No important improvements or extensions or a subway can come under federal receivership.

We believe the council should pass the ordinance.

IT'S FRENCH CHILDREN OR OURS.

Premier Poincare would not talk debts. Premier Herriot will talk them. That seems to be the only difference. As for paying the four billion dollar public debt to America, France is about as far away as in 1918.

For America the French debt is not primarily a burden on this generation of Americans. We do pay the interest on French debts that Frenchmen should be paying. Our taxes go into retirement funds that should be financed by French taxpayers. But the long burden of the debt will be on the next two generations. What we release for France we add to the financial burden of our children and our grandchildren.

The British debt payment will cover more than half a century. A French settlement would cover that and perhaps more. The Hurley plan makes sixty-seven years the limit. Others could not be much less.

If there is no settlement Americans must pay the French debt over a period something similar in length. It would be the burden of the next two generations.

This generation is the trustee of the obligations of the next. It cannot guarantee property to the future. It cannot assure the next two generations the wealth and resources of today. Has it the right to impose a burden on those generations that may be more than they can carry?

France is obligated financially for a debt that today's French children must pay to today's American children. Repudiate that debt and our children will pay it. They will pay for $4,000,000,000 worth of victory, land, resources, indemnities that modern Frenchmen got. That is not fair to our children.

THE GOODING BILL.

Through the Panama canal westbound tonnage to ports on our Pacific coast increased 400 per cent in the years from 1920 to 1923. On our transcontinental railroads westbound business declined almost one-half during the same period. Last year the Panama canal had the biggest year in its history with a gain of $7,000,000 in earnings. But the railroads were hauling empties to the western coast in order to bring freight east.

Before congress now is the Gooding bill designed to stabilize this situation. It would perpetuate the long and short haul rule and make exceptions to it impossible. The railroads want exceptions, such as they had up to 1918, revived. But, says Senator Gooding of Idaho, it is a good rule without exception.

The long and short haul rule prohibits railroads from charging a lower rate between two points than is charged between two intervening points on the same line. Lower freights between Milwaukee and Chicago than between Waukegan and Chicago are not allowed, according to this rule, and the intermountain people, the shipping lines and some others want no exceptions to it. Since exceptions were prohibited in 1918 the Panama canal and intercoastal shipping has flourished. Now the railroads want the exceptions revived so they can flourish. The Gooding bill, already passed by the senate, says no.

The breakdown of the transcontinental railroad business, due to this rule, would not be a pleasant thing for Chicago to contemplate. As a great railroad town Chicago and friends of Chicago in congress should study carefully the effect of the Gooding bill on middle western interests.

Editorial of the Day

Kewanee HELP! YES, SIR!

[Kewanee Daily Star-Courier.]

When, in its editorial, "Will Kewanee Help?" THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE confesses that Chicago is a madhouse of political dissension and cross purposes, it makes perhaps what is the strongest appeal possible for deeper interest in its problems from the downstate.

Of course, Kewanee will help; so will Cairo and so will Galena.

What the downstate does not want to do, however, is so to involve itself in Chicago's internecine wars that it will ultimately become powerless to be of any service to the commonwealth.

In all big cities the all important things seem to be personal politics and patronage. On these things the downstate can perhaps find little in common with Chicago, but it can find much in common on all battles for the greater things of government, be it of city, state, or nation. On some of these things there is already a hazy working alliance that needs only to be isolated and organized to become vastly more effective than it is at present.

We can agree very well with THE TRIBUNE when it says that what Chicago and Illinois need is the best of downstate supporting the best of Chicago, regardless of geography or metropolitan conditions. Results worth while, however, will come only when Chicago is able to prove that certain fears existing downstate are unreasonable and unwarranted—the fears of the concentration of power, due to machine politics at the maximum of efficiency.

Is there any such concentration directed by political bosses skilled to the nth degree, or are we of the downstate seeing ghosts?

How to Keep Well. By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit, or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations, and where a stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed, Dr. Evans will not make a diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases. ### CONSUMPTION FACTORIES.

FRANKLY confess I believe in "trust-busting" when it comes to handling convicts. I know what has been said about the lack of mentality, the twisted mentality, and the psychopathic states responsible for criminality. I know something of the literature of inheritance of criminal qualities and crime as a result of bad environment. I give these considerations all the weight they deserve.

But I also know that the decent, law-abiding citizen is getting the dirty end of the stick under our criminal code, our jury system, our criminal code, our supply of lawyers, under things as they are.

In the contest before the law between the murderer and the murderer the murderer is shown the greater consideration; between the decent and the indecent, between those who carry the burden of society and the social parasites—the decent and the upholders get a dirty deal. Furthermore, I know that among criminals the level where fear of punishment ceases to restrain is far lower than the present practice would suggest.

For all these reasons I hold that "treating 'em rough" is the proper practice. Quick, sure, unrelenting, and inescapable punishment that is punishment will beat all "treating 'em kind" methods when it comes to protecting society, and decency must have a chance or back we go to savagery and darkness.

But the prevention of consumption in convicts is a different matter. In my opinion a penitentiary ward is the right place to beat up a convict when that is the thing to do, but never, under any circumstances, has he the right to give him consumption.

Statistics show that penitentiaries and jails are consumption brood ovens. Some of the authorities keep the record fairly good by a policy of pardoning convicts that they may die at home.

A very bad policy, I think, for two reasons. First, the consumptive in the last stages of the disease is too weak to protect his family against infection. Second, some of the consumptives who are pardoned to die do not die promptly, but go about spreading the disease for a few months or a few years. If they must be pardoned, then they should be pardoned to the state health department in order that the community may be protected.

In order to partly clear its skirts of the charge of making its penitentiary

WANTS FULL PAY.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—(To the Legal Friend of the People.)—A firm hired me to work and I started on a Monday. I was laid off the following Thursday and was given pay to that day. Can I demand wages for Friday and Saturday?

Depends on whether the company was by the week or by some other period. Illinois cases tend to hold that the wage contract is not conclusive on this point. If the employee is discharged without legal ground during one of the recurrent periods of the employment he is entitled to pay to the end of such period, although he can be discharged at the end of a period without notice.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—(Friend of the People.)—How is the pardon board appointed and by whom, and for what length of time? What are the qualifications necessary to be one of its board? What say do the people have, if any, about pardoning criminals? Are women eligible? Do all the states have such boards?

The board of pardons and paroles consists of three members for a period of three years, not more than two of whom shall belong to the same political party as the governor. The board is appointed by the governor, and with the advice and consent of the senate. The qualifications call for persons, and at least one man have been appointed. The board will entertain any petition filed by any citizen in any case before it. We understand the

60 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 2, 1865.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The court-room that a few years ago heard the decision that a Negro has no rights which a white man is bound to respect, witnessed the admission of a Negro as counselor of the Supreme court. Senator Sumner brought him in and moved his case. Justice Chase quietly assented and directed the clerk to administer the oath, and the whole ceremony that marked the practical reversal of the Dred Scott decision, by the same tribunal that had pronounced it, was over in a few minutes.

SPRINGFIELD.—The senate ratified the amendment to the constitution as passed by the congress of the United States abolishing slavery or involuntary servitude except as a punishment for crime.

BALTIMORE.—The Annapolis correspondent of the American announces the arrival there of Secretary Seward, accompanied by his private secretary. They immediately left for Fort Monroe on Gen. Grant's dispatch steamer to meet the rebel peace commissioners.

BOSTON.—The announcement was received at the statehouse that President Lincoln had signed the constitutional amendment abolishing slavery. Thereupon Gov. Andrew issued orders for a national salute of 100 guns to be fired on the common at 10 o'clock to-day. He also recommended that the church bells be rung one hour and suggested similar demonstrations throughout the state.

So I am eager to forbid it. You know—as do I—that in such delicate matters as kissing even the most beautiful red haired girl could not act normally at her first kiss. ### THE TRIB IS ADVISED TO ATTEND THE MEDILL SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—It seems to us that THE TRIBUNE editorial of Thursday, Jan. 23, entitled "Selling Cars Through Bottle Necks," was entirely uncalled for and was going considerably out of the way to cast an undeserved and gratuitous slur upon a very important industry—to say nothing of the lack of truth in your conclusion.

That Chicago's street traffic is heavily handicapped by a dearth of proper and suitable thoroughfares—"bottle necks," if you will—all will admit.

But to state that, "If the auto trade should realize" all this "more power would be applied to breaking bottle necks," is taking something for granted without the facts before you.

Who has the power to provide the necessary streets to give the needed traffic relief? The city and county or the "auto trade"?

The first principle in the training of a newspaperman, man is to investigate and learn the facts before writing a story. How about a course in the Medill School of Journalism for yourself, Mr. Editorial Writer?

For many years the Chicago Automobile Trade association, representing the local "auto trade," has done all it could to urge, promote, and approve every effort that gave promise of lessening traffic congestion. One of the planks in its platform is "More north, south, and west paved streets, paralleling present boulevards."

It has been suggested what streets might be used, traffic routing, and many other things of this nature.

It has publicly approved the proposed drive, the new bridge over the Chicago river, the proposed exits from the loop to the outer drive, the boulevard of South Park avenue, and many other projects of a similar nature.

It has been the consistent policy of the local "auto trade," through this association, to do all it could to improve these conditions.

In the despairing language of so many contributors to the "Voice of the People"—"who have to be satisfied with a clever headline, but never a correction or apology—"Wake up, TRIBUNE, and give your readers the truth."

SOVIETS TO RULE AMERICA, VISION OF RUTHENBERG

15,000 Cheer Him at Lenin Memorial Meeting

New York, Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Charles E. Ruthenberg, secretary of the Communist Workers' party, released last week from Michigan state prison pending appeal to the Supreme court on his conviction of violating the criminal syndicalism law, spoke in Madison Square Garden today.

He asserted that the workers must "replace" the United States government by a proletarian republic representing the dictatorship of the proletariat. The 15,000 persons who were packed into the auditorium burst into a frenzy of applause.

Leads Lenin Memorial.

Ruthenberg was the chief speaker at a memorial massmeeting for Nicolai Lenin, under auspices of the Communist Workers' party. Two hundred uniformed policemen, fifty plain clothes men and a score of mounted police were present.

"Prisons have only one effect on revolutionists," Ruthenberg said. "Prisons can only steel their will and increase their determination to strike blow after blow until the ugly capitalist system, which puts men in prison, is swept out of existence. The greatest thing in the history of the human race was the proletarian revolution in Russia in 1917. There the program for the building of a better world has been put to a test and triumphed under Lenin."

What Leninism Is and Does.

"The class of oppression today faces a new kind of enemy such as no capitalist class has faced before. We are applying the principles of Lenin as revolutionary scientists. We will apply the knowledge of where to attack and deal the first blow. Leninism is that by which we mobilize the masses."

"What has Lenin left us as a method of revolution? What is this sword with which we are striking? Lenin showed that the working class must be mobilized through their daily lives so that tomorrow we may replace the government with a workers' soviet republic and the dictatorship of the proletariat."

BOB TAXICAB DRIVER

Two robbers early yesterday ordered Morris Biderman, 2081 Augusta street, to drive his taxicab to a dark side street on the west side. They got $12.

MISCHA ELMAN TO WED; FIANCEE IS A SAN FRANCISCAN

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Mischa Elman, the famous violinist, is to wed a San Francisco girl. Announcement was made today of his engagement to Miss Helen Frances Katten, daughter of Simon Katten, 2209 Clay street.

The wedding probably will take place in May. The present tour of the violinist will end May 1.

MISCHA ELMAN.

The romance began four years ago when Miss Katten was a passenger on board the Berengaria. Mutual friends introduced them, and since that time Elman has made several tours to San Francisco and has made each visit an occasion to press his suit.

Two weeks ago he gave his last concert in San Francisco, and that evening Miss Katten announced her engagement to her family.

Miss Katten, while not a musician, comes from a musical family. Albert Elkus, the composer, being her cousin. She is a native of San Francisco. Her father is treasurer of a large local business firm.

DECIDES DEATH DUE TO POISON.

Mrs. D. Banks, 533 Oakley avenue, died yesterday of blood poisoning. Dr. C. W. Bibbs, 3535 Grand boulevard, said her death did not result from an illegal operation as was reported to the coroner.

WORLD EXPENDED $3,300,000,000 FOR 1924 AUTOS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—The world spent $3,300,000,000 for new motor vehicles in 1924, according to Percy Owen, chief of the automotive division of the department of commerce.

Returns from the department's trade agents throughout the world indicate that during the last year there were assimilated 2,500,000 passenger cars and trucks and 200,000 motorcycles, which total number, at the conservative figures of $1,000 average retail value for the cars and trucks, and $300 for motorcycles, enables the department to approximate the amount spent for automobiles in general, says Mr. Owen.

An increase of 2,750,000 in passenger cars, and approximately 550,000 in trucks during the course of the year 1924 reveals the interesting fact that the latter registered a more imposing rate of registration increase than did the former, the figures being 23 per cent for trucks and 17 per cent for cars. This represents a tendency which may be even more pronounced during the present year. It substantiates the oft repeated statement that automotive vehicles are coming more and more to fill the world's need for commercial transportation.

The United States now has 84 per cent of all passenger cars, 74 per cent of all trucks, and 11 per cent of all motorcycles in the world.

What Is the Best Selling Feature??

One salesman says dealers want quality, another price, another delivery, another style, another service—all are fundamental. But the selling point that gets orders from dealers when all the others fall short is "the people want and will buy our goods."

Salability resulting from advertising brings into focus and makes doubly effective all the other arguments of the salesman.

"How to do advertising" must go hand in hand with "How to use advertising" and on this the mature experience of this advertising agency organization proves to be of unusual value. The four essentials of advertising success are covered in our free book Four Square Advertising. Write for it.

Saturday's Puzzle Solved

THOUSANDS ARE JOBLESS DUE TO OYSTER SCARE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—The eastern coast of Maryland is facing financial ruin as a result of the action taken by Chicago health authorities in regard to oysters. The "oyster bubble" has spread throughout the country, and the market for oysters has fallen off 85 per cent in consequence, in spite of the assurances of the health officers of Washington and Baltimore that typhoid germs cannot live in the salt water blivies of the Chesapeake.

Instead of condemning all oysters, local authorities contend that the health officers of Chicago should but not all salt water oysters and warn their people against oysters bloated with fresh water by inland merchants to increase their sale.

In the meantime, however, factories in the bay shore towns have shut down, oyster fleets are tied up at their landings, and thousands of oyster shuckers, fishermen, and employees of the canneries are out of work and facing starvation.

Elmer Finds Ether Full of Good Music

He's Pleased and Tells the World So.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Upon tuning in WGN for the 320 studio concert yesterday afternoon my set told me that one of the station's big tubes was hoarse from a bad cold.

However, the headlines on this concert, Thelma Mother-Parmer, seemed to be a fine soprano, plus the richness of tone of a good contralto.

John L. Clark, a baritone with a decidedly pleasing voice, furnished the masculine contrast, and Margaret Anderson, pianist, completed the instrumental section of the trio, her pieces ranging from Grieg to Brahms.

From the prolonged applause that came in from Central theater, the 320 concert by artist students of the Chicago Musical college, through WGN, must have been of unusual interest. Here's adding some more applause.

If Ruth Marie Marcotte, Kankakee, Ill., really has the superb, vibrant, charming, dramatic voice that the air route gave her, Belle Forbes Cutler has a student from whom much may be expected.

Here's apparently another wonder violinist—Gulla Ruzsics. Taking the announcer's word, she is only 8, but from her playing of Lalo's Symphonie Espagnole (first movement) it was hard to believe that Miss Ruzsics was other than a mature artist.

Theodore Bleding (Smith, Mo.) and Catherine Wade-Doplin (Bellingham, Wash.) enter this column again for three violin duets by Godard.

The modern symphony orchestra is evidently destined to add an element of color, of warmth, to classical compositions that they have not had heretofore. The Orpheo orchestra at WEBS is steadily entering the field of the classical, and progressing red-hot and rapidly.

A multum in parvo paragraph: 750 to 833, KDKA, Pittsburgh, congregation singing the Doxology; choir continuing in impressive service music, KTV, Chicago, 8:30, Sunday Evening club singing the Doxology, 8:10, sermon at WCCO, Minneapolis-St. Paul, 8:30, KTV, quartet and choir making hearts throb with "Fear Not, O Israel." Clifford W. Barnes, president, tells audience that his experience in listening to the club's services a week ago Sunday turned him into a radio enthusiast.

8:45, WJZ, New York, and WGY, Schenectady, Herman Weinstein, violinist, playing Lalo's "Symphonie Espagnole" from main tower, Waldorf-Astoria, 8:50, WLW, Cincinnati, orchestra playing allegretto movement, Beethoven's "Seventh Symphony," 8:50, WQW, Chicago, Drake orchestra, symphony giving fine reading of Lalo's "Les Preliudes" (No. 2).

The masses will be reported to her office through other sources, she said, and she adds that it will be well for these people to file a schedule of earnings this year. The forms may be obtained at her office in the federal building or at any of the following branch offices: 4654 Broadway, 1939 Milwaukee avenue, 807 West Madison street, 1180 East 53d street, 6904 South Halsted street, and at the federal buildings in Joliet, Aurora, Rockford, Rock Island and Peoria.

RADIO PROGRAMS FOR TODAY

(Monday, Feb. 2.) (Central standard time throughout.)

THE performance of "The Chocolate Soldier," about which so many listeners have inquired, will not be broadcast by WGN. The Chicago Tribune station on the Drake hotel.

The Drake concert ensemble and the Blackstone String quintet will add an hour to their daily luncheon concerts, commencing today. Their concerts will run from 12:40 to 2:30, with interruptions at 1 o'clock and 1:25 for the Board of Trade quotations.

The extra hour of music is for the benefit of listeners with leisure during the lunch hour. This week both orchestras will play only classical music and they desire an expression of opinion from fans as to whether classical or lighter selections are the more popular.

Skeezix time for the children at 5:30 will be conducted by Miss Clara Belle Baker, director of the National Kindergarten and Elementary college.

This is silent night after 7 o'clock. DETAILS OF TODAY'S W-G-N PROGRAM.

HOUSE MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR MUDD, LITTLE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—

Memorial services were held today in the house chamber for the late Representative Mudd of Maryland and Little of Kansas.

Eulogies were delivered by Representatives Zihlman, Hill, Linthicum, and Tydings, Maryland, and Johnson, South Dakota, during the exercises for Mr. Mudd.

With Representative Tincher, Kansas, presiding, Representatives Madison, Hill, Hoch, Strong, White, Ayres, and Guyer, Kansas; Butwinke, North Carolina; Jost, Missouri; Rankin, Mississippi, and Fitzgerald, Ohio, paid tribute to the memory of Mr. Little.

There's nothing that Felix Moran likes better than a good movie show, especially if it's based on a detective plot. And there was one last night, a thriller, near the Fair store garage at 442 West Madison street, where Felix is a watchman. So Felix went to the show.

Safeflowers, with a key, entered the rear door soon after and cracked the safe. They got $1,000, late Saturday night receipts from drivers delivering C. O. packages.

ADVISES 3 YEAR WAIT IN FUNDING OF FRENCH DEBT

Forget Past, Lafayette,
Too, Crosby Urges.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—Postponement of further negotiations with France over the funding of its debt to the United States for a period of three years was suggested today by Oscar T. Crosby, assistant secretary of the treasury during the war period.

"To prevent, if possible, much bitter recrimination which will ensue from a discussion of the Oskar T. Crosby French debt, if (Crosby and Baring) that discussion follows the lines recently developed," said Mr. Crosby, "I have ventured to suggest the following program:

Advise Blotting Out Past. "That hereafter it shall be understood on both sides that the subjects to be named are in total eclipse are: 'Lafayette and all that the word connotes; the French-American naval war of 1798 and all that flowed from it; the causes of the great war; the objectives ascribed variously to allied and associated powers; the relative dangers to which these powers were subjected; the divisions of the 'spoils of war' established at Versailles in 1919; the different purposes to which various portions of loans made by us to the allies may have been devoted."

Then a Wait of Three Years. "Assuming this eclipse to have been established, I would further suggest that a period of three years elapse, if desired by our debtors, before any further negotiations shall be undertaken concerning the debt; that we shall expect at the end of that time a proposition from the French government for a settlement which shall in no wise call in question the validity of the total debt, witnessed by French obligations, but which may contain any propositions for reduction of both interest and principal, based on French capacity to pay that, without binding in any way a future government policy, there shall be as far as possible established the understanding that the American people will probably be willing to accept such a proposition from the French government, relying on sound French sentiment."

FRENCH SEE U. S. INVOLVEMENT IN RUSSO-JAP PACT

Puts Moscow Finger on Pacific Policy.

By HENRY WALES.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.) (Copyright: 1925: By The Chicago Tribune.) PARIS, Feb. 1.—Japan rushed through the negotiations for a treaty with Russia in order to beat out the United States, according to the beliefs expressed in certain well informed French circles, as well as some of the Paris newspapers, in commenting on the Tokyo-Moscow accord which was signed in Peking a few days ago.

Nippon believes Secretary of State Hughes' replacement by Ambassador Frank B. Kellogg means an administration envisaging the imminent re-opening of relations with the soviet in order to protect American interests, these French commentators say. Russian Foreign Minister Tchicherin in a public speech declared the entrance of the soviet into relations with the Pacific ocean powers puts Moscow in immediate contact with the chief policy of the United States. Japan is believed here also to have sought an accord with Russia for a common policy toward China as a counterweight to the American conception of the far east policy.

Japan feared invasion. It also is pointed out that Japan was seeking to escape isolation, which threatened after Great Britain renounced its alliance with Tokyo at the Washington arms conference at the behest of the United States. It is believed the English project for a naval base at Singapore also hastened Tokyo's efforts to find a potentially powerful ally.

Supported on one side by Germany and on the other by Japan, Russia seeks to establish an ensemble policy toward Europe and North and South America," the Temps says in an editorial tonight.

Denies Doumergue Visit to Poland. Elysee palace tonight denied a report that President Doumergue is arranging to visit Poland this spring, aboard a French cruiser to Danzig, and thence by rail down the Polish corridor to Warsaw. The communiqué carefully avoids denying the possibility of such a visit, merely stating it is not being prepared now. It is recalled that before his resignation former President Millerand promised to visit Prague, Czechoslovakia this summer.

Another journey by the French president among the little entente powers like that made by M. Poincaré in 1914, on the eve of the world war, has been mentioned in certain sections of the press.

BOSS WHILE ARMED WITH KNIFE. A colored man armed with a butcher knife forced Joseph Yeager, proprietor of a cigar store at 1806 Lake street, to give him $5 yesterday at noon.

WANTS AMERICA TO SPEND FRENCH DEBT OVER THERE

New York, Feb. 1.—France should be assisted in paying her war debt to this country by a provision that the money paid back to the United States be spent exclusively in France, James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, said in an address today.

"This is nothing less than fair," Mr. Gerard said, "as it was for war supplies, food, and ships France bought from us that she incurred the debt." By his plan France would print special currency notes good only if spent in that country. These would be sent to the United States treasury and sold to American merchants at slightly less than the prevailing exchange rate.

Robbers Probably Fatally
Shoot Canton Policeman. Canton, Ill., Feb. 1.—Patrick Kemper, assistant police chief, was shot five times, probably fatally, in a pistol battle with robbers whom he surprised attempting to blow the safe of the Scripps-Crawford dry goods store early today. Kemper was seen by the robbers' lookout, and they ran for a waiting automobile, firing as they reached the car. Kemper emptied his pistol and believed he struck one of the thieves. The safe in the store, which contained Saturday's receipts, had been drilled and the explosives poured when the robbers were interrupted.

SUITS

OUR regular stocks—that's a very important fact to keep in mind in connection with this half-yearly event.

It means that not a suit in the entire offering was made for "sale" purposes. Not a single garment bought from the season-end "shop-run" of any manufacturer.

The woolens—the majority imported—were carefully chosen in the bolt by our own representatives.

The styles are of our own design, based on accurate observation of what leading custom tailors are turning out.

The tailoring embodies the highest standard in the entire industry—better than the best in any suits ready to wear offered by any other establishment in the city.

OVERCOATS

AS in the suits, so in the overcoats—they are our regular stocks, every garment in the entire group made expressly for Marshall Field & Company.

This has a particularly important bearing on the character and distinctiveness of the woolens.

They are rich, resilient fabrics—chosen principally from the best looms of the British Isles—full of the vitality of fine quality, and agreeable in pattern.

The models are our own—reflecting in their lines the down-to-date preferences of a clientele that knows precisely what good style is.

After careful inspection of the principal overcoat offerings elsewhere, we consider these values conspicuously worthwhile.

INCREASED COST OF BREAD MAKES ITALIANS UNEASY

Wheat Shortage Causes
Raise in Price.

ROME, Feb. 1.—[By the Associated Press.]—Considerable discontent has been caused by an announcement that beginning tomorrow the price of bread is to be increased. The cheapest grade will be raised from 2 lire 10 centesimi to 2 lire 30 centesimi per kilo (2.2 pounds).

The next grade will be raised 25 centesimi and the best grade 35 centesimi in price. Roughly speaking, 5 quintals (220.46 pounds) to 300 lire, and there is a tendency to a further increase. The government is studying the problem in an endeavor to adopt measures by which a part of the wheat in exchange on the lire will be reimbursed to importers of wheat.

Hungary Buys Wheat.
Copyright, 1925, by the New York Times—VIENNA, Feb. 1.—Extremely poor harvests in 1924 in all central European states has had some remarkable consequences. One is that Argentina wheat has recently been imported by purely agricultural countries such as Hungary and Bulgaria. A double hundredweight of Argentine wheat costs $90.000 Hungarian crowns in Budapest, which is the same amount charged for Hungarian wheat, although there is a transportation charge of 115,000 crowns on the foreign wheat. The reason for this curious situation is that Hungary, anxious to improve its foreign commerce, had exported too much of its own deficient harvest of 14,000,000 double hundredweight and is now compelled to import high priced foreign wheat in order to cover home requirements.

In July of 1924 a double hundredweight of Hungarian wheat cost $3.50. The present price is $3.40. Parity, moreover, is entirely destroyed when Hungarian wheat is no longer able to compete in foreign countries.

Austria May Suffer.
Austria, being almost entirely dependent on wheat imports, will suffer exceedingly from the high prices of grain. Strict interpretation of the normal budget puts it out of the question to raise salaries of state officials or workmen's wages, thus threatening a possible industrial crisis. The government's efforts are at present restricted to reducing the price of bread by making manufacturers sell flour without profit, but this can be only a temporary remedy.

Bootleggers Get Choice of Jail Hospital Beds.
Hijackers and bootleggers are occupying the best beds in the county jail hospitals, John J. Walter told the weekly meeting of the Chicago Federation of Labor yesterday. It was voted to ask authorities to oust them and put prisoners with labor affiliations in their places.

IRISH APPEAL TO AMERICANS FOR HELP IN FAMINE

DUBLIN, Feb. 1.—[United News.]—Thousands of dollars are urgently needed to succor Irish peasants from starvation and cold. President William T. Cosgrave of the Irish Free State has asked the United News to announce that the need is great and that he hopes Americans will help the sufferers in the western counties. "Any subscriptions sent to me by our generous friends in the United States will be appreciated. The government is providing $2,500,000 to meet the situation," he said.

Reports of famine conditions have been somewhat exaggerated, according to Cosgrave, but the problem must be tackled in a big way. He explained that abnormal rainfall throughout the summer and autumn had seriously curtailed the potato crop and rendered peat unfit for fuel in several counties.

Three Killed, One Hurt, as Passenger Train Hits Auto

Prosser, Wash., Feb. 1.—Three persons were killed and one possibly fatally injured near here early this morning when a Northern Pacific passenger train hit the automobile in which they were riding. The accident was at a crossing. The dead are: Marie Miles, 18; Dorothy Wilson, 17, and George Joensuu, 18.

FIRST "L" TRAIN RUN OVER LINE TO NILES CENTER

The first passenger train was run to Niles Center from Howard street yesterday, marking the completion of the new five mile branch line which the elevated roads will operate.

The first train carried fifty officials of the Chicago Rapid Transit company who made a formal inspection, after which they said they found no faults in the work. Regular passenger service will not begin for some time, it was stated. The opening date was not announced.

A cheering crowd greeted the arrival of the train at the Dempster street terminus in Niles Center. Mayor John Brown made a speech of welcome in which he predicted a bright future for the new district.

Officials in the party included Britton I. Budd, president; Bernard J. Fallon, general manager, and W. V. Griffin, secretary and treasurer of the Rapid Transit company. Others were D. H. Howard, engineer in charge; C. M. Mock, chief engineer; Charles H. Jones, electrical engineer, and Arthur U. Gerber, architect.

OLANDER SPEAKS TODAY.
"Legislative proposals of the Illinois State Federation of Labor" will be the topic at the City club's luncheon today. Victor A. Olander, secretary treasurer of the federation, will speak.

"just a little sore throat" the beginning of many a serious illness - Give it continuous antiseptic treatment

THE pain and discomfort is really the least of a sore throat. The worst of it is the poisoning of the whole system by the sore throat germs.

You feel "sick all over"—and you are. And in this lowered condition anything—influenza, grippe, diphtheria, pneumonia—is likely to fasten upon you.

Unless you give it vigorous antiseptic treatment at once, you may be many weeks in throwing off the effects of "just a little sore throat."

Begin at once to fight the germs that are sending their poisons throughout your body.

Don't think that a gargle or spray night and morning is enough. To really do the work, you must make your treatment continuous.

Formamint is the only throat antiseptic of proved germicidal power with which you can do this, because it is the only one in which the antiseptic action lasts long enough and can be renewed frequently enough under any and all circumstances, really to destroy germs.

Get a bottle of Formamint from your druggist, and every half-hour

Formamint has been scientifically tested and approved. Recommended in standard medical text books—ordered by over 10,000 physicians.

or hour all day dissolve one of the pleasant-tasting tablets in the mouth.

As it slowly dissolves, it bathes the throat tissues in one of the most powerful germicidal agents known to science, in a form which is perfectly safe.

This is the most modern, most scientific way to treat sore throat.

To prevent sore throat, to protect yourself when exposed to contagious disease—during epidemics, in crowds, in dusty streets—take a Formamint tablet about every two hours.

This steady, all-day-long treatment kills off throat germs as the occasional or momentary action of a gargle or spray cannot do.

EUROPE'S 'BEST DRESSED WOMAN' MARRIES AGAIN

Famed American Takes Fourth Husband.

BY A. STANLEY PARKER.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

(Copyright, 1925: By The Chicago Tribune.)

CAIRO, Feb. 1.—Mrs. Jean Nash, an American known internationally as the "best dressed woman in Europe," added another name to her fairly long list of husbands today when she wedded Mohammed Sabet, a prominent Egyptian, here. The marriage was performed under the Mohammedan laws. Mrs. Nash, whose name has been bandied about the great white ways of a dozen European cities, the haunts of fashionable society, for the last two years, is the daughter of a late vice president of the United States.

She has been married twice before and divorced before divorcing her latest husband, Capt. John V. Nash of the British army.

Admirer Kills Self.
Mrs. Nash became famous in January, 1923, when Alfredo Ortega, a millionaire Argentine, killed himself at Cannes after she had spurned and laughed at him. Two months later her husband, Capt. Nash, was sued by a Parisian modiste for $5,000 for dresses purchased by his wife. Capt. Nash won the suit.

In February, 1924, Mrs. Nash was charged in a Paris court with obtaining money under false pretenses, having borrowed $10,750 from the Danish consul in Smyrna and giving a diamond-encrusted necklace as security.

Two weeks later she created another sensation by jilting Baron Lederman von Warburg, nephew of Otto Kahn, the New York banker. She alleged that he owed her money and that she had paid his hotel bills at Cannes.

Mrs. Nash's marriage did not come as a surprise, because ever since her arrival here three weeks ago she and Mohammed Sabet were inseparable, being seen together everywhere. They danced all night last night at the Shepherd hotel, where an "emerald and rubies" fete was given in honor of 450 American tourists who arrived on the liner Adriatic Saturday.

Sabet Well Connected.
Mohammed is a member of a well known Egyptian family, being a son of the late Salah Pasha Sabet, president of the court of appeals. His uncle is Mahmoud Bey Sabet, lately first secretary of the Egyptian legation in London and now holding a similar post in Rome. He is married to a cousin of Queen Nefis.

The marriage was held this afternoon in the Mohammedan religious courts. Under the Mohammedan law Mohammed Sabet can divorce his wife wherever he wishes without stating the reasons and without legal formalities.

HABERDASHERY IS BOBBED.
Non-negotiable bonds, valued at $2,500, were taken from the sale in the haberdashery of B. A. Johnson, 166 West Garfield boulevard, yesterday by three armed men. They took $50 from the proprietor.

FRENCH RECORDS NAME U. S. MAN IN THEFT OF PAPERS

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

PARIS, Feb. 1.—The official court records in the inquiry on the theft of reparations documents charge Pierre Michaud, one of the commission's secretaries, with stealing the documents and "receiving $500 or $600 for certain papers sold to an American named Myers," but the French are not interested further in establishing the American's identity.

Albert Cook Myers of Philadelphia first was mentioned in connection with the case when the Paris Times, an American afternoon paper, two days ago published his name as the purchaser, as he had accepted other papers. This was neither admitted nor denied by French officials, since there were no proceedings against Mr. Myers, he having only purchased the documents from the persons offering them for sale. The documents, though relating to various international conferences since the armistice, were said to contain no state secrets.

From a dependable source Tex Tansu learned that these documents were taken for the use of an American university. The French newspapers Friday named Harvard in this connection.

Starting Today--An Extraordinary February SALE of SILKS Planned for Weeks to Give You Unprecedented Values

For weeks we have been planning a sale of silks to open at 8:30 this morning. Our buyers have covered markets, made most unusual purchases from manufacturers who, for various reasons, were obliged quickly to dispose of their stocks for cash. Now we are ready to open the entire silk section of our second floor to give the women of Chicago values of really remarkable merit. This is one of the largest sellings of silks we have ever offered.

Thousands of Yards of 40-Inch Satin Crepe, Yd., $2.95

This sale of crepes will be giving the public an exceptional value. One of the most popular fabrics. This comes with a high lustre, heavy weight, and a quality sold regularly at far above this price. These are offered in all the beautiful spring colors, such as blonde, titian, cranberry, and over 40 other colors.

Purchase Sale of Beautiful Silks, Yard, $2.38

Flat crepe, Canton crepe, satin Canton crepe, Canton faille, and many other assorted weaves. All the latest spring colors, also black and white.

An Unusual Selling of Chenille Brocades, Yard, $5.55

This remarkable value is only made possible through a great sacrifice and is the lowest price we have ever been able to quote on this quality. Forty different color combinations in two-tone and self colors. Truly beautiful fabrics for afternoon, party and evening clothes.

A Remarkable Collection of Assorted Silks All Grouped Into One Price, Yard, $1.98

Taffeta, gros de Londres, in a full line of two tone and plain colors. Crepe de Chine, beautiful quality, in 50 colors. Elbow proof chiffon, high grade charmeuse, spiral crepe, plain satin, also large quantities of the better silks.

Printed CREPE de CHINE, Yard, $1.95

Printed crepes promise to be more popular for the coming season. This value is out of the ordinary, while the colorings are shown in gorgeous array. All the newest colorings.

Reductions NOW in Printed Crepes 68c

Just 50 pieces, all different, all beautiful designs, constructed with a little cotton which does not impair the wearing qualities, but makes this price possible. Yard.

Exceptional Values in Silk Remnants

Thousands of yards of silk remnants in practically every weave and length from half-yard pieces for trimming to the longer lengths for blouses, dresses, foundations and many other uses. These remnants are all marked down for this special event.

Imported Satin Souple BLACK ONLY 40 inches wide, $2.95

beautiful lustre, direct from France, yd.

Illinois Central System Shows That the Public Owns the Railroads

One reason why American railroads are well established in the confidence of the public today is that they have rendered wonderfully efficient service in recent periods of record traffic. Another reason is that the public is becoming more conscious of the wide extent to which railway securities are distributed among the people. Nearly every citizen is either directly or indirectly a holder of railway securities. Therefore, anything that affects the railroads affects the whole economic structure of the country.

The Illinois Central System, for example, started 1925 with nearly 22,000 stockholders, an increase of more than 100 per cent in the last nine years. At the beginning of 1924 our American railroads as a whole had more than 800,000 stockholders, an increase of more than 30,000 during the preceding year. The number of individual bondholders undoubtedly runs even greater, since bonded indebtedness in 1923 was nearly 57 per cent of the total outstanding capitalization of our railroads. On a comparative basis, this would make the total number of individual bondholders slightly more than one million.

The number of individual holdings of stock and bonds of our railroads is therefore about 1,800,000, which is approximately equal to the number of employees.

These 1,800,000 holdings of railway securities, moreover, are merely the direct holdings. Indirectly railway securities represent the interest of many millions of persons. Insurance companies and savings banks are among the largest holders of railway securities. More than $2,000,000,000 of the funded debt of the railroads is owned by life insurance companies alone. More than $1 out of every $5 invested as a reserve behind each of the fifty million life insurance policies in force in this country is invested in railway bonds.

The thirty-nine million savings bank depositors in the United States likewise have their deposits guaranteed in part by railway securities.

When all of these indirect holders of railway securities are considered in connection with the direct holders, it can be seen that most of the people of this country have—and they are coming to realize it—an ownership interest in the success or failure of our railroads.

It has been well and truly said that it is "Main Street" and not "Wall Street" that owns the railroads today. By constantly widening the circle of patron and employee holders of railway securities, our citizens are fast establishing an ownership of our railroads that is public ownership in its truest and most beneficial sense.

In no respect does the Illinois Central System claim perfection for itself. In the matter of service to the public, however, it does claim to be the equal of any railroad in this country. Our ambition is to continue to increase the efficiency of our service to the public until it has become as nearly perfect as railway service can be. That is the task which we have set for ourselves. We ask the co-operation of our friends and patrons in its accomplishment.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

C. H. MARKHAM,

President, Illinois Central System.

STOP FREE MAIL, PAY P. O. DEFICIT, PLAN OF SENATOR

Howell Attacks Abuse of Franking Privilege.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1. — Hundreds of thousands of dollars are spent by Uncle Sam every year to satisfy the franking, or free mail, privilege granted to members of congress.

This situation has been brought to public attention by Senator Robert B. Howell (Rep., Neb.), who presented an amendment to the postal salaries bill designed to decrease the amount of free mail which pours from the capitol.

The amendment was defeated, but the senator says he expects to press it again soon.

Asks a Test on Cost.
Senator Howell's plan provides for a special stamp on all free mail, to determine how much goes out in a year. After a test, he would have congress appropriate enough each year for all government mail, on the theory that the government should pay for its mail as the public does.

Some congressmen are sending out at no cost to themselves, public health bulletins to all of their doctor constituents, and bulletins on care of the baby to mothers in their districts. One Democratic congressman sent out to practically every one of his constituents a copy of the memorial address on Woodrow Wilson delivered in the house by President Alderman of the University of Virginia. The government paid the postage, Senator Howell points out.

Bulletins Sent Out Free.
Between 10,000,000 and 15,000,000 agricultural bulletins are printed by the government every year, he says. Four-fifths of these are sent out to con-

Bad Breath

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, eliminating them to natural action, cleansing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, burning cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula for these cathartics are derived from olive oil. People afflicted with bowels and liver complaints with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 50c and 30c.

PREACHER TALKS OF CIGARETS, OF MOTHERS, CAREER

Commenting on a rumor that had reached him that women members of his congregation smoked cigars in public, the Rev. Francis Carr Stuffer, pastor of the Wilmette Baptist church, said yesterday in his sermon:

"You women have placed us men on a pedestal of chivalry and daring, and the moment we fall we become despicable to you. We men have placed you on a pedestal of purity, cleanliness and self-restraint, but the moment you step down, you become despicable in our sight."

There are mothers in this church who lie awake nights crying because their daughters want to be missionaries, and there are mothers lying awake crying because their daughters want to become libertines."

Police search early yesterday for a colored man who hugged Miss Lilian Demarow, 35, as she waited for a street car at Jefferson and Randolph streets, proved futile. When Miss Demarow, who lives at the Revere marrow, broke away and fled the Negro chased her until she neared a police station.

Tortured Feet

Can Be Given Positive Relief in Four Weeks

IN the days of the Spanish Inquisition burning or branding the feet was a favorite method of torture. Today BURNING and ACHING FEET are the most common forms of constant torture to foot sufferers. Devices give only temporary relief.

Constant Suffering
Foot sufferers who experience nervousness or fatigue after the slightest exertion do not realize that a continuance of foot trouble will eventually cause lameness, pain in limbs and general rheumatic condition. Correct your foot faults before they conquer you. The foot is made for work and service, and will stand much abuse. It is, however, made up of many small parts, each of which supports the other. All its ills can be remedied by a sure process—simply placing the bones of the foot's arch into proper position.

Our Method
We know the exact location of each bone and ligament. We will replace them with our hands, and then Nature will keep them in place, after a surprisingly few treatments. BRACES AND SUPPORTS ARE DISCARDED because Nature restores the foot to normal, and normally no braces are needed. You cannot determine this condition with your eye. If your feet are sore and tire easily, then you need attention.

Foot Examination Free
We charge you nothing for an examination. After we look at your feet we will give you a close estimate of the cost of giving you PERMANENT RELIEF.

A Room, a Tribune Want Ad, and An Income

An extra room is a distinct liability. It takes a toll of rent just as well as the rooms that are really needed, and very little use is derived from it except, perhaps, as storage space. Many wise householders, wishing to avoid extravagance, rent such rooms to Tribune readers. It is very easy to find a desirable tenant; the proof of this may be seen in the statements of those who have rented successfully by using Tribune "Room to Rent" Want Ads.

Mrs. S. Shapiro, 359 E. 53d Street, is one of these Tribune advertisers. She used this Tribune Want Ad on November 25th and 26th:

"I rented my room," she reported. "Two university students, who called the second day my Want Ad appeared, found it suited their needs. I have found The Tribune always very effective for quick renting to desirable tenants."

POOL BRAINS AND COFFERS IS PLEA TO MISSIONARIES

Christianity Near Crisis, Dr. Mott Declares.

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—The Christian religion will face its most difficult task in the next fifty years, according to Dr. W. B. Norton, chairman of the National Missionary council and chairman of the World's student Christian federation, who today addressed the foreign missionary convention here.

"We must pool our brains and our financial resources," Dr. Norton said. "If we are to compete with the educational systems now being developed in China and India and if we are to cooperate with the rising national churches in these great countries."

Many Lands Represented.

The program was international today. Messages were read from representatives of the national churches of Japan, China, India, and the near east, and from the archbishop of Canterbury, chief ecclesiastical of the Anglican church. Those who were present and spoke for their various countries were:

Baron Van Boetzelaer Van Dubbel-dam, Holland; the Rev. Pastor Daniel Couve, France; the Rev. Jacob E. Lundahl, Sweden; Dr. Martin Schlink, Germany; and Dr. Robert Morgan, Scotland. The bishop of St. Albans represented the archbishop of Canterbury. Lenneth MacLennan, a member of the British parliament, representing the Labor party in England, was introduced to the convention. Dr. Julius Richter, University of Berlin, Germany, offered prayer.

Coolidge at Ceremony.

A ceremony commissioning Dr. and Mrs. Edward Field Parsons as medical missionaries to China took place this morning in the First Congregational church, of which President and Mrs. Coolidge are members. At the conclusion of the services President Coolidge offered his arm to Mrs. Parsons and Mrs. Coolidge took the arm of Dr. Parsons and walked down the aisle.

FIGHT EMBARGO CANADA SEEKS UPON PULPWOOD

Publishers Call It Class Action.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—The National Publishers' association announced today it had filed a brief with Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee protesting against what it claimed was a threatened embargo on pulp wood by Canadian paper manufacturers, and asking what is to be the reaction "against an embargo which is obviously class legislation."

"Such an embargo on the part of the Canadian mill owners," the brief says, "will have the effect not only of crippling the pulp wood industry in the United States but also of giving Canadian manufacturers control of our paper market, thereby increasing the cost to every user of the printed word in the United States."

"Under the mask of forest conservation, Canadian manufacturers are trying to force the Dominion government to stop the exportation of pulp wood. They are trying to force American operators to move their mills into Canada, where the wood would be transformed into pulp for the paper mills here. That much accomplished, the next step would be to embargo pulp, thus forcing Americans to make their paper in the Dominion and under the domination of the Canadian paper industry."

NEAR DEATH AS RESULT OF FALL DOWN SHAFT

An alleged liquor party in his of 303 South Des Plaines street early yesterday morning probably will result in loss of life to Rube Pitsford, 444 Crystal street, vice president of the Lakeside Envelope company. Pitsford and Al T. Omar, superintendent of Bradner, Smith & Co., paper manufacturers in the same building, fell down an elevator shaft together.

The police learned from a watchman that the two men came to the building about 9 o'clock yesterday morning and demanded admittance. A little later he heard a noise, investigated, and found the bodies in the well of the elevator shaft. Omar had a fracture of his right leg and Pitsford was injured internally.

Des Plaines street police surgeons said they had been drinking.

You, too, Can Possess Such Beauty as This!

A graceful and attractive figure is every woman's desire. Most women, seeking youth and renewed vigor, are willing to try every advertised method or so-called "cure." Often these systems are harmful—employing medicine, starvation diet or heavy gymnasium apparatus. Do not place your health and womanly charm in the hands of an unauthorized director. Common sense and natural law are combined in Charlie White's system to give safe and sure results.

Beauty is the inherent right of the feminine sex. Simple, natural law, scientifically applied, will mold you anew. Following Charlie White's new Muscle Sense System you will rapidly and surely regain beauty of form, whether you are stout or thin, whether some part of the body—neck, bust, waist, hips or thighs—needs to be developed or reduced. If you have tried other systems without avail, do not despair. This is the System you need.

Charlie White Defies Years; Youth Returns

This man has had an experience of over 17 years in successful scientific body culture. He has worked miracles in hundreds of cases and can do the same for you. He is the only man in the business whose knowledge has been gained through practical experience. For a moderate charge he will put you on the easy road to beauty and health. He applies all his personal skill, then turns the patient over to an expert masseuse who knows how to manipulate all the muscles in the body. There are no classes or assistants.

Landlords! Here's the Way Flats Are Rented

Mrs. H. C. Gelman, 7121 Clyde Ave., ordered this Tribune Want Ad inserted on October 19th and 21st:

TO RENT—TO RESPONSIBLE ADULTS. Single, Nov. 1 to Apr. 1, 1925. $25. 201 S. South Shore dist.; a blocks from May 1. C. Fairfax 2250.

Her apartment was rented at once. "As I am leaving the city soon, I wanted to find some reliable family to occupy my place during the months I am going to be away," she said. "My Tribune Want Ad rented it at once; there were a good many phone calls, and eight people called personally to inspect the apartment the first day my Want Ad appeared. I found a satisfactory tenant that same day, so I am naturally very well pleased with Tribune Want Ad resultfulness."

This report shows that it is not impossible, or even difficult, to rent an apartment at the present time. A Tribune Want Ad, carried to a vast number of readers, reaches desirable prospects promptly and efficiently. The consistent use of this effective rental aid will attract the attention of these prospects to your apartment.

Prophecy

THERE were few who shared the faith of the pioneers who undertook the development of the telephone.

With an infant art to nourish constantly by new discovery and invention, and handicapped by scanty capital and public apathy, they held to their vision of a nation-wide service.

Nearly two score years ago, when the telephones of the United States were fewer than those of the State of Illinois to-day, the business was organized essentially like the Bell System of the present. That is: a central advisory staff, a central scientific organization devoted to development and research, a central department to promote progress in operating technique, a central source of supply of standardized material, local operating companies familiar with local needs, and a national network of lines interconnecting these companies.

Telephone pioneers planned this organization structure, believing it necessary for efficient and economical national service. The nation's experience has proved the clearness of their vision.

COOLIDGE'S FARM AID BODY URGES BETTER SERVICE

Criticizes Jealousies in Federal Bureaus.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—How government agencies under present laws may be of greater service to agriculture is suggested in a report submitted to President Coolidge by the President's agricultural conference.

This report, the third of a series, deals entirely with administration of government departments and covers every major activity of the government, including not only the work of the department of agriculture but other departments and agencies which are in any way concerned with agricultural problems of the country.

The report stressed the necessity for better service to agriculture through all agencies and expressed the opinion that agriculture is entitled to the same passage of proper laws but also to adequate administration of those laws and to harmonious service by all departments of the government.

Jealousies Criticized.

The conference criticizes government officials for permitting jealousies between bureaus to interfere with a coordinated government program for the service of the American farmer.

The practice of conducting both service and regulatory activities in the same office and with the same personnel has many disastrous effects and they should be separated as completely as possible. Furthermore, agencies with police or regulatory activities are called upon to promote better conditions in the affected industries by carrying out the spirit of the laws being administered rather than in strict compliance with the letter of the law.

Unified Banking System Urged.

A unified national banking system was strongly urged in the conference report, with the statement that such a system can only be developed by a federal banking policy which will encourage eligible nonmembers to become a member of it.

Security of American agriculture from foreign disease and pests is of the highest importance, said the conference on the subject of plant and animal quarantines.

In case that the federal cooperative marketing board is established, as proposed in the preliminary legislative report, the conference recommends that it should investigate all complaints made to it, through cooperative associations on problems coming before the interstate commerce commission.

SHAPELY LEGS A HANDICAP; SHE DISFIGURES 'EM

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 1.—Lola Thompson's job in the movies started her shapely legs, which directors employed for "pinch hitting" in scenes otherwise likely to be saddened by the unattractive limbs of the leading woman. This gained her a livelihood, but it wounded her pride as an aspirant to dramatic success, and today, unable to endure the situation longer, she emptied a bottle of caustic acid on the legs she thought blocked her path to real acting.

Police surgeons who treated her and heard her story said she will recover, but that the legs which helped her win a beauty contest in Australia a year or so ago will be permanently disfigured.

INSURGENT EXILE REVIVES HOPE OF MELLON TAX CUT

La Follette and Fear Out of Jobs.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Refusal of Republicans to continue to permit La Follette supporters to fill majority party committee assignments will facilitate adoption of the Mellon tax program in the next congress, according to the belief of administration leaders.

Approval by the house Republican caucus on Feb. 27 of the program to bar La Follette Republicans from committee rooms, B. M. LA FOLLETTE, Republican of Wisconsin, will lose the place he has held for the last half dozen years on the powerful ways and means committee.

Opposed G. O. P. Leaders.

Mr. Fear figured as one of the leading opponents of the Mellon tax plan in the last session and made trouble for administration Republicans on frequent occasions by joining with the Democrats on the ways and means committee.

Similar action by senate Republicans will mean the dropping of Senator La Follette (Rep., Wis.) from the committee on finance which handles tax legislation in the upper house. Senator La Follette also has frequently voted with the Democrats and often has made it difficult for administration Republicans to control the committee.

San, South China Leader, Is Noticeably Weaker

PEKING, Feb. 1.—[By the Associated Press.]—Dr. Sun Yat-sen, the South China leader, who recently underwent an operation for cancer of the liver, was noticeably weaker this morning. Late yesterday he suffered extreme weakness, but reacted to stimulation and passed a comfortable night.

BUNDESEN ASKS MORE SANITY IN PICKING CLOTHES

Man's use for clothes is discussed by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, commissioner of health, in tomorrow's issue of Chicago Health. "Less vanity and more sanity in dressing" is the theme of the bulletin.

"Don't be an animated clothes rack," is one of the admonitions. "Be consistent in the wearing of clothes and select what is suitable for the season. Comfort is of more importance than style."

"Some individuals need more clothes to keep warm than others. This is a personal factor and should be recognized as such. What the other fellow wears is not always the best guide for you."

CHINESE LEADERS MEET TO SOLVE FINANCE TANGLE

PEKING, Feb. 1.—[By the Associated Press.]—The conference to readjust pressing financial and military affairs in China opened today with 146 out of the 168 leaders invited on hand. Tuan

Chi-jui, head of the provisional government, made an address, with a poetic reference to springtime and seeding, of which he declared the present effort emblematic. Minister of the Interior Kung Hsin-chen, representing the cabinet, spoke briefly.

The session lasted ten minutes. The date of reconvening was not announced.

By MRS. WILSON WOODROW

INSTALLMENT I A HINT OF ADVENTURE.

It was in the bleak December that the red gods began their insistent calling through our austere, sedate law offices, and Mr. Plummer, our senior partner, looked at me and listened a moment too long. The result was that he had an immediate revelation, that he must "go, go, away from here."

He was an archeology hound; so, of course, the spots on the other side of the world at which he was overdue included Egypt, the plains of Ur—wherever there were diggings and discoveries. He had been plodding along so many years, that he felt criminal about starting off to enjoy himself without orders from a physician, or even a hovering on the verge of a nervous breakdown, except, with Mr. Schlesinger, myself and his own inclinations all pushing him, he gave in and made his preparations to start.

Mr. Schlesinger was up to his ears in a big corporation muddle; so most of Plummer's work would devolve on me, the junior partner, and in the fortnight before he left I was kept busy going over papers and getting the hang of the various interests he represented. I had also met a number of his clients, who for the most part politely expressed themselves quite willing to accept me as his understudy.

Plummer came up to my desk and clapped a bony hand on my shoulder about twelve o'clock on the last morning of the old year.

"Dandridge, you've put in the entire holidays getting acquainted with your new responsibilities. Seems to me, you've earned a little spree; I was going to ask you to dine with me at the club tonight and go to a play. But I've just been talking over the wire with Mrs. Fiedrich, and he tells me he and his granddaughter will be at the Plaza tonight to see the New Year. It is thought, if we could arrange to stop there after the show, it would be a good opportunity to meet you. I didn't believe there would be a chance of our getting a table; but I telephoned and found a reservation had just been cancelled, so it looks as if we were predestined to go. You can't say 'no' to me."

I told Plummer I was at his disposal. If the door into the unknown 1924 had swung open a little, I might not have had that pleasantly exhilarated feeling which came at the prospect of becoming the confidential adviser of Jerome Fiedrich. Instead, I might have risen up and tied Plummer and bound him in a chair to keep him at home.

But she had individuality.

It was the door remaining locked, I dined with him at his club, and learned all about archeology. Owing to his enthusiasm and wealth of theoretical and book information, we arrived late at the musical comedy. When it was over we went on to the Plaza.

I nodded to an acquaintance or two about the dining room, and recognized Achison, the famous criminal lawyer, who was entertaining a typically Achisonian group. He never drops the grand manner, and he composes a supper party in a restaurant as a popular musician might compose a symphony; partly to please himself, and partly to intrigue the public. It pays to advertise.

"There's Fiedrich coming in," said Plummer suddenly.

Jerome Fiedrich was, like Achison, one of New York's characters, pointed out to visitors, and ranking with the Metropolitan tower, Chauncey Depew, and the Woolworth building. He was said to be over eighty; and as he did not go out much, I had never seen him before.

Surrounded, as he was, by a cluster of quite young men and girls, I did not get a good view of him until he sat down. Little and fat, this merry octogenarian looked more like Santa Claus than a retired general of Wall street. He had pyramided his millions under the hottest fire, and was said to have retained his sense of humor even in his always temporary defeats.

His granddaughter leaned over to say something to him. Plummer, who was seated next to me, looked at her and spoke. I already had a rather extended newspaper acquaintance with her appearance; for every publication in town must have been equipped with a large, special compartment for her photographs. Sometimes they showed her topping the rails on a big hunter; sometimes, like a grotesque, distorted doll, levitating on the tennis courts; or in leather and goggles, climbing into an aeroplane. Headlines announced her feats of adventure.

Yet she didn't look Amazonian or weather beaten in the least. She was a slender girl, with blue-black hair, black lashes on an olive cheek. They swept up, and I felt an electric tingle go over me. The eyes were a light, clear gray, her grandfather's eyes. But I don't know how to describe her; I'm no word juggler. She was nothing like so pretty as some of the other women in the room; but she had individuality, a sort of a—O, well, she kept me guessing.

She was dressed in something green, I think. She was either so well dressed, or her personality was so marked, that you never noticed her clothes. The high lights of her that night were her eyes and a thin stream of diamonds and emeralds that ran about her neck and rippled down until they splashed in a pool in her lap. Sometimes she twisted them about her fingers—drops of dew and deep sea water, quivering and leaping with light.

"Fiedrich's given his order," said Plummer; "and now before it's served, you had better come over and be introduced." He got up and I followed him.

Old Jerome was genial.

"Well, Mr. Dandridge, you've been clever enough to win the moderate and reserved approval of both Plummer and Schlesinger, which coming from them amounts to enthusiastic praise. You must be very able or very tactful. Which is it?"

"Able, Mr. Fiedrich. I have every qualification but that of experience, and in any dealings you and I may have, I am looking to you for that."

"Easy," he gave a little look of laughter. "I have every known brand of it."

The turned up corner of his mouth went higher, wrinkling his cheek. But his eyes? Not a button on me had escaped them; and now he was visually stripping off all my outer habiliments, even my ease of manner, and inspecting the mechanism of my brain, psychology and emotions. A leisurely, cool and rather cruel process.

"I'm not sure that inexperience is not a better qualification for me than either of your partners has to offer," he said reflectively. "You are not case hardened in caution yet. Ah! bowing around me like an adventure."

How him? Not charming man, a true collector. I take off my hat to him, and bend low—with my tongue in my cheek. Sort of an iron step in a flower garden tonight, isn't he? I remember once, when I was coming over from the other side, he put an interesting question to a group of us in the smoking room.

"What is the most impelling phrase in the world?" he asked. "The one to which all hearts vibrate?" One man answered this, another that; but he shook his head, until he finally gave the answer to his own riddle. "The most impelling phrase in the world," he said, "is: How would you like an adventure, with a bit of money on the side?" And, by George, he was right! How does that appeal to you, Mr. Dandridge? The sure rewards of the conscientious plodder? Or the steady work, and the sure rewards of the conscientious plodder?

Irene's Sister.....Charlotte Stevens

By Mae Tine.

Good morning!

If you are full of faith and believe that as soon as the pretty country maiden strikes the big city all those things that her heart has desired are handed to her on a silver platter—"The Mirage" is your meat. Otherwise you will find a good deal of it applesauce. Applesauce, however, that is not hard to take.

It's not hard to take for three reasons. Florence Vidor is the first. You know she DOES entertain beautifully. As Irene Martin she comes to town to be an opera singer. Having no intention of really going for a career, but merely to occupy herself for the year before her marriage, she is apparently quite satisfied when she immediately lands a speaking part in the first line of a comedy.

Here she meets The Second Reason—Miss Vola Vale as Betty Bond. A loud and likable young person, Miss Betty, who gives up most of her spare hours to the entertainment of the tired business man and who introduces Irene to The Third Reason—Mr. Clive Brook as Henry Hall, a WISE business man who has discovered that a party at night sometimes makes business with the tired business man more satisfactory than day.

Mr. Hall is on friendly terms with a number of the chorus girls whom he hires to help amuse his friends. Quite frankly he tells Irene:

"I'm not in love with you and I have no designs on you. I merely wish to engage your services as a professional guest." This after a scene in which the poor but proud young woman has flung her fifty dollar bill at him—that perfectly good, honest fellow had sent her after the first party at which she appeared.

O, yes—there's a Fourth Reason why you may like this applesauce. The wise business man is the good man and the hero of the production. He knows his Broadway, but his heart is pure. It's the bumptious, small town fumes who muddles up things and makes the heroine cry. That's an old "line" that should be sure to win your hearts.

You'll be rather bored with Mr. Hall's home. Judging from the various scenes it's nineteen stories high, but somewhat of a step without effort from the top balcony right out into the yard where basks one of those swimming pools the Hollywood producers do get into a picture. Or maybe the house is just on a high hill. Never thought of that till this minute.

Because the acting and photography and some of the subtleties are so good "The Mirage" DOES hold your interest. This Mr. Clive Brook is a most appealing person. UNUSUALLY appealing.

See you tomorrow!

CLOSURES.

The team of Monte Blue and Marie Prevost is about to split. Warner Brothers have decided each shall head a company.

Louise Fazenda, having appeared in just thirteen pictures during the last year, rises to announce that she is alive and perfectly able to appear in thirteen more. (Her hobby's probably black cats.)

Universal has acquired the foreign production of "The Last Laugh" for distribution. It was directed for the U. F. A. by Emil Jennings.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

Chief Justice Harry Olson was reported on Jan. 21 as having criticized the Circuit and Superior courts for the number of cases reversed. The Criminal courts were meant.

On Jan. 30 THE TRIBUNE stated that Gladys Hall and her sister, Mildred, who were arrested recently for obtaining goods from a State street store under a misrepresentation, were winners of bathing beauty prizes at the Trianon dance hall. While they competed in the contest, they did not win a prize.

INSTALLMENT LXL A PROMISE FULFILLED.

When Palmyra at last opened her eyes, she gazed up at John Thurston for a bewildered moment.

The sailors of Japan, on the one hand, the returning native on the other, stared down at her.

Side by side two bodies lay. Ponapé Burke had fallen in a heap. But Olive would have seemed in slumber had it not been for the terrifying little hole of the bullet.

Emotion swept over the girl again.

A naval surgeon rose from examining those two, turned toward Thurston. "Japanese rifle, American hand and eye," he smiled. "An invincible combination—yes. Pope off a brace with every shot."

"Palmyra drew back from John. "O," she wailed, "I cannot bear that it should have been you who killed Olive."

"But," O, no, no, lady," the surgeon interrupted in eager reassurance. "This native man is not dead."

She looked at that form in shuddering question.

"Bullet knocked him out a little," exclaimed the officer, "but it hit nothing to make this big man trouble. He will be something like when the prizefighter gets knocked to sleep on the jaw. If we tie him into bed and sit on him, he will be all right."

"You must not get crossed by Mr. Thurston," he added, with smiling earnestness. "He had to shoot Olive to save Olive's life. Also yours. There was no other way."

At his first sentence Palmyra's lips had parted in a gasp of relief. Now, in the reaction, she wavered, closed her eyes dully, put out toward Thurston a groping hand.

John caught her to him once more to uphold her. His heart was aflame with the knowledge that that pathetic blind groping had been for him. With her face upturned to his, appealing, close, Thurston, in that great yearning, long denied, could not resist; would, despite the grinning audience, have kissed her again and again.

But Commander Sakamoto, of an ever tactful race, was quick with a command which forced his unwilling men to the right about; then chased the giggling villagers home with the sword of a samurai.

And so it was that Olive—yes, commonly called Olive, who speaks no language known to civilized man, who eats far pork with his fingers and anoints himself copiously with scented coconut oil and turmeric, stood up with John Thurston, the embodiment of civilization at its finest.

Thurston could not give his best man a stick pin, for Olive seldom if ever wears a shirt.

But he could see that the islander got Ponapé Burke's swift schooner, the Lupéa-Nô, trusted for the brown man's protection by the American mission and the Japanese navy, and manned by an already eager and worshipping crew.

Pianists, Singers and Chorus Are on List of Melody Purveyors

By EDWARD MOORE.

Pianists, singers, a pair of each, and a chorus, together with Pavlova's beautiful ballet, made up the list of attractions for yesterday afternoon's melody seekers. It was a shorter and less diverse schedule than frequently happens on Sunday afternoons, yet with its points of interest fairly well distributed.

Josef Liehtman at Orchestra hall was one of the pianists and William Bachaus at the Playhouse was another. They are well known artists, both of them, and like all good artists they have well developed individualities and personal styles.

Mr. Liehtman was heard in the Beethoven sonata, opus 81, and two transcriptions of Schubert songs by Liszt and Tausig. They were intelligent, they were brilliant, they were not overweighed with emotion, and they missed just enough notes to prove the playing was human and not mechanical. Mr. Bachaus was heard in a Chopin prelude, preluded by a equal from a patron who thought she was a mouse, and played with an enthusiasm that banished all thoughts of anything but Chopin.

Marie Sundelius, who has one of the rarely lovely soprano voices of this generation, was at the Studebaker. Just how able a singer she is never became quite as evident as it did in her first group of songs. It began with John Alden Carpenter's "The Player Queen," which was apparently written for a voice of lower type than hers, and ended with a new setting of "It Was a Lover and His Lass," by Edward Harris. One suspects this composer of being a pianist, not only from the complex accompaniment, played in a fine manner by Edgar Nelson, but from the melody itself. It is a good tune, but put into a range that would seem, if not impossible, at least improbable for any other singer. Yet Miss Sundelius went to both extremes, sang them excellently, and made a hit.

The other singer, Frederic Freeman, tenor, came to the Blackstone to present a Beethoven program, the first time that the records show this particular form of specialized recital. Mr. Freeman is evidently a studious enthusiast, explaining the songs and then singing them in English. Those that could be heard maintained much the same mood, and if they proved any thing it was that Beethoven made higher flights in instrumental than vocal music. It was a program for other students, rather than for concertgoers in general, but interesting on that basis.

The Catholic Casino, a well trained amateur male chorus, sang at Kimball hall under the direction of Joseph N. Moos. It did well with sacred works by Bach and Palestrina, less well with a secular work by Edgar Scholz, but from the melody itself. It is a good tune, but put into a range that would seem, if not impossible, at least improbable for any other singer. Yet Miss Sundelius went to both extremes, sang them excellently, and made a hit.

Billy always has a wonderful appetite. Recently at a dinner the child failed to eat an appetizer and the hostess commented on it.

"Q, thank you," said the boy, "but I never need them."

Our baby was fretful and cried continually one morning. Much annoyed, Peggie remarked, "Muvver, if you had bruvver charged, send him bat. I fink he don't like it here and is cwyling to do bat where he tame from."

Billy was getting unconsciously boisterous at the party, and the strict hostess was becoming annoyed. "Willie," she said, gently but firmly, "unless you become more quiet I will have to send you home."

Billy looked at her soberly. His expression was like a somnambulist's after he has been told of his sleep walking. Then suddenly he brightened up with his boyish smile.

"No," he said, confidently though respectfully, "you can't send me home till 5 o'clock. My invitation read 'from 2 to 5.'"

HAROLD TEEN—SOMETHING OF A MYSTERY HERE

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Simple Recipe for Scapple.

A letter from a correspondent begins: "I am wondering if we may not have a recipe for Philadelphia scapple again. This is 'pig' time in the country. I lent my recipe to my sister, and it has been lost." Here is the recipe probably referred to, but note it is not called Philadelphia scapple above. Some things have been learned about Philadelphia scapple since the simple recipe for a small amount of scapple was printed here, and an excellent one it was voted to be, but the name of our Quaker City should not be attached to it, remember. Scrape and wash one pound of spare ribs. Add to them one quart of cold water, one or two onions, some dried or fresh celery leaves, and what you choose else of seasoning. Sage can be saved and added to the mush. Let the water around the meat come to a boil slowly, and cook at a simmering temperature until the bones fall out of the meat. Shred meat from the gristle after the bones are out and strain the liquor. There is no need to let it cool to remove the fat, although this can be done, but your scapple will have far fewer calories, the fat will never be noticed in eating the finished product and this is the best way to utilize it. It is indeed a pity to waste that fat!

Into two cups of this liquid stir one-half cup of cornmeal, yellow preferably, and a tablespoon of flour, but the latter is not needed when the meal is long cooked. Cook in double boiler, adding what you choose of seasoning, or depending only on the seasoned liquid; stir in the shredded meat and mold in brick. Cut cold brick in thin slices and brown them gently—cooking ten minutes per side. If the fire is too hot the brown skin formed will peel off and this is not at all nice!

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
Some of Antoinette Donnelly's recipes for youth and beauty, together with suggestions for personal hygiene, have been assembled in a 44 page booklet, "Advice to Women." It will be mailed upon receipt of 10 cents. Address: The Tribune Public Service Bureau, 11 South Dearborn street, Chicago.

SARAH H.: THE ONLY PRACTICAL way of removing hairs is by destroying the hair follicles. This is done by electrolysis. You may, however, bleach the hairs through the use of peroxide. It should be diluted with equal parts of water at first, and the strength gradually increased. Apply by using a piece of absorbent cotton dipped in the solution, bend a stamped, addressed envelope for my leaflet on superfluous hair.

T. R. M.: THE BURNING SENSATION of the eyelids may be due to a local irritation of the lining membrane of the eyelids from dust or infection, or it may be due to eyestrain. I should advise you to go to an oculist to be relieved from the annoyance.

BILLIE V.: THE BROWN SPOTS on your cheeks near the nose and under the eyes are probably what is commonly known as moth spots or liver spots. The cause is not known, and treatment as a rule is not successful. They are not indicative of any general health disturbance.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Featured by the double victory of Alfon James of the Alverno A. A. and those of Dick McCarter of Henry playground and Ed Jacobson of the Alverno A. A. this year's Tri-State silver skates winners in their respective classes, skaters representing the Alverno A. A. won team honors in the annual ice derby of the Opal A. A. held at Douglas park yesterday.

Alfon James, who has the majority of ice meets held this year, scored 150 points. Henry playground experts, coached by John Reed, finished in second place with 130 points, while those from the Northwest Skating club garnered 80 points. Fourteen teams broke into the point column.

New Stars Get Chance to Shine.
In the absence of Francis Allen, Onell Farrell and other well known skaters who are in the east to compete in the international championships at Saratoga Lake, N. Y., this week, other experts had their fling and took advantage of it. Alfon James of the Alverno A. A. won the class A one mile after an interesting race with his teammate, Bob Reed, and Gus Fets of the Northwest Skating club, James also won the mile and out event after some spirited racing.

Dick McCarter of Henry playground who won this year's Tri-State juvenile derby, crossed the line a winner in the boys' race for those under 14 years, while Ed Jacobson of the Alverno A. A., who won this Tri-State's junior derby a week ago yesterday, won the event for boys under 18 years.

Judith Olson Disqualified.
Catherine O'Brien of Avondale playground won the girls' race for those under 16 years in the Littlejohn of the Northwest Skating club took the event for those over 16 years. Judith Olson of the Alverno A. A. finished third in the girls' senior but was disqualified for cutting in on the turns.

The closed meet for employees of the Continental and Commercial bank was held in connection with the Opal derby. The meet was well conducted under favorable conditions and about 10,000 skating fans witnessed the interesting program. Summaries:

TOLEDO SOCCER TEAM OUTKICKS DETROIT, 2 TO 1

Toledo, O., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—The Toledo soccer club won the semi-final of the Detroit branch for the national cup tourney here this afternoon by defeating Detroit Celtic 2 to 1.

The Toledo club led 1 to 0 at the close of the first half, but Spica, by some brilliant work, tied the score soon after the second period opened. The Toledo club, however, took a decided brace and caron put over the winning goal.

The Toledo soccer club will now play the Garwoods of Detroit next Sunday and, if successful, will meet the Vestaburg club of western Pennsylvania for the national championship.

Mr. Isaac D. Levy, President of the Company, summarizes his letter to the Bankers, as follows:

History

The Company sells wearing apparel for women, misses, and children. The business was originally established in New York in 1901 and now has stores in addition in Brooklyn, Buffalo, Newark, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Cleveland. The net assets have been increased almost entirely from the re-investment of surplus earnings and now amount to over $6,000,000, while annual sales amount to over $21,000,000.

The real estate in New York, Brooklyn, Buffalo, and Philadelphia is owned by subsidiaries. The buildings in Newark, Pittsburgh, and Cleveland are leaseholds owned by the Company. Buildings are of modern, fireproof construction and are located in the most important shopping centers of the respective cities.

The organization caters in the main to middle classes rather than to persons who buy extreme styles at high cost. In this manner the business is exceptionally stable. The Company does not carry furniture, carpets, and other merchandise which entails considerable expense in handling; neither does it carry dry goods, its efforts having been concentrated in the most profitable and most economically handled lines of merchandise. The policy of the Company has been to supply reliable, high-class, up-to-date merchandise at the most moderate prices at which goods of this quality can be sold.

Sales and Profits

The net sales and profits, after giving effect to Federal Taxes at present rates, as certified to by Price, Waterhouse &amp; Co., are as follows:

| Year ended July 31st: | Net Sales       | Profits       |
|-----------------------|-----------------|---------------|
| 1920                  | $20,193,130.50 | $ 806,692.45 |
| 1921                  | 22,584,810.95   | 1,066,535.52  |
| 1922                  | 20,717,128.36   | 1,159,564.12  |
| 1923                  | 20,936,271.95   | 985,592.20    |
| 1924                  | 21,000,626.42   | 1,042,018.09  |

Profits for the five years ended July 31, 1924, on this basis averaged $1,012,080.47, or $5.06 per share on the Common Stock. Net sales for the five and one-third months ended January 10, 1925, were $9,636,299.98, and profits for that period, on the same basis as shown above, amounted to $552,237.15.

The stability of sales in the past five years demonstrates the efficiency of the organization in handling the current volume of business. Additional facilities recently provided are expected to result in a substantial increase in volume.

Financial Condition

The Balance Sheet as of January 10, 1925, as certified to by Price, Waterhouse & Co., but after giving effect to capital adjustments, shows total net assets of $6,196,152.61. Current assets amount to $4,097,246.66, and current liabilities are $1,398,495.87. The Company's statement includes no value for the goodwill which has been built up over a period of years.

Dividend Policy

It is contemplated that dividends will be inaugurated on the Common Stock at some period during 1925 at the annual rate of at least $3 per share.

Management

The President has been in active charge of the business since its inception, and his associates have been identified with it for periods ranging from 10 to 25 years. The President will continue to have full charge of the business and will retain, along with his associates, a substantial majority of the capital stock.

In due course the Company expects to make application to list this stock on the New York Stock Exchange.

Liquidation—Messrs. Chadbourne, Hunt, Jencks & Brown, New York, for the Bankers; Messrs. Bondler & Reinstein, New York, for the Company.

THE first Shaw-Walker filing cabinet was "Built Like a Skyscraper" many years ago. Sills, uprights and girders were constructed of channel steel. Then the walls were put on and the whole thing welded into one piece of solid steel.

Each drawer, too, was welded into one solid piece and set to run on speedy, silent bearings.

Today, in the big Shaw-Walker plant in Muskegon, the original "Skyscraper" file is still in daily use.

Hundreds of thousands of Shaw-Walker files have been built like this original. They are standard all over the world.

Shaw-Walker sells 2700 items of office equipment—filing cabinets, desks, safes, indexing, cards, folders and guides. Into your office, along with this equipment, goes Shaw-Walker file engineering service, which adapts Shaw-Walker products to your particular business.

WORLD SUPPLY OF WHEAT RESTS UPON TRANSIT

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

There is no actual world's shortage in wheat, in the accepted sense of the word, but there is an extremely close adjustment of supplies to demand, even after allowing for economies that are certain to be practiced as the result of the high prices.

The latest report from the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome, the world's leading authority showing an exportable surplus of 328,000,000 bu. in the southern hemisphere, suggests that after allowing for an additional surplus of around 160,000,000 bu. in North America, there will be around 78,000,000 bu. for world's carry over into the crop at the end of the season, exclusive of allowance for a normal carry over in North America.

Difficulties in Shipment.

While such an estimate shows a theoretical surplus above requirements, there is one extremely important factor in the world's situation that has been entirely ignored by the grain trade. That is, the almost utter impossibility of the southern hemisphere shipping all of its surplus before July 1, the end of the crop year.

It is on that account that latest foreign cables estimate that North America must furnish 160,000,000 bu. to import countries during the last half of the crop year.

Inasmuch as both the United States and Canada must furnish many millions bushels to non-European countries, it is hardly probable that the United Kingdom and the continent will be able to obtain the quantities estimated as needed from North America.

When the crop year normal, the wheat situation would be as follows: The world's crop for 1924-25, exclusive of Russia, was 1,915,400,000 bu. of that total only 29,000,000 bu. were raised outside of Europe. In 1924 the world's crop, exclusive of Russia, from all countries reporting for the 1924-25 period was 785,000,000 bu. compared with 112,000,000 bu. in 1923. In 1924 the North American crop was only 75,000,000 bu.

Speculation in Wheat Advances.

Speculation buying of wheat probably was responsible for the rapidity of the rise in the advance, and with May above $2.40, the price level is regarded by all, except the most enthusiastic bulls, as in a defensible position for the time being. Should the price held at the $2.40 level for some time, the traders will become convinced it is the public is likely to come in again as liberal buyers.

May wheat had a range of 13 1/2c to 14 1/2c the week, July 10c, and September 8 1/2c, with the close 13 1/2c, a gain of 1/2c for the week, and a gain of 1 1/2c for the month. The price level is regarded by all, except the most enthusiastic bulls, as in a defensible position for the time being. Morgan Lithograph.

H. L. Kalamazoo, Mich.—The Morgan Lithograph company was founded in 1884. It is said to be the largest company in the United States engaged in the production of colored lith posters. It has authorized and outstanding 60,000 shares of common stock (no par value) and 630,750 preferred stock (closed issue). The 60,000 shares of common stock now being offered are already outstanding and have been purchased from the company. The 630,750 shares of preferred stock, except 1918, in the last five years a total of $443,000 in cash dividends has been paid, in addition to stock dividends totaling 120 per cent. The present dividend rate is 14 per cent. This stock has a fairly good rating among industrial common stocks.

Relative low prices of oats.

There are around 77,000,000 bu. of oats held at Chicago, Duluth, and Minneapolis.

Cold weather and low prices have increased consumption on the farm.

New harvests have come into the market as buyers and advanced prices $1.00 for May, $1.00 for July and $1.00 for September.

With the low price of the wheat, the price of oats is also low.

May wheat advanced to $1.00, and July to $1.00, with a sharp decline and a close at $1.00 for May, $1.00 for July, and $1.00 for September.

The main contention of those who regard prices too high is that oats are not clearing from Atlantic ports and a good supply with oats is at big discounts under the May. Should they begin to move out freely it might materially change the ideas of the trade.

Hog supplies were down on the record for that month. There is a fair consumption.

TALK OF GOLD BASIS HOLDING LONDON INTEREST

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

LONDON, Jan. 31.—The extremely lethargic character of the week's trading on the London exchange largely was attributed to a combination of domestic troubles.

Labor squabbles which broke out at several spots were the chief contributing factor in the existing depression.

The railway men and miners still are being held down to prevent more serious developments. Friday's strike throughout all the government buildings, involving elevator men, druggists, janitors, and electricians, did not help the situation. It also must be remembered that the all important question of whether Great Britain is going to return to a gold basis still is unanswered.

Taking all these things into consideration, it is not much wonder that the business at a low ebb.

After weeks and months of wild rumormongering, a giant whisky merger actually materialized Friday as the Distillers, Walker & Sons have reached an agreement to join forces. The Distillers, Ltd., becomes the parent company and the other two maintaining their individuality under their old names and continue to put out their famous brands.

A new issue of shares for the parent company will be made as payment for the old shares being effected in a proportion of five new ordinary shares (common) for every four ordinary shares of the other two companies.

Following this announcement Distillers Ltd. considered ground on the market, dropping four shillings six pence per share.

Stokes Arrives to Fight Indictment—Dempsey Denies Reports of Elopement

HERE FOR TRIAL. W. E. D. Stokes, millionaire hotel man, arrives in Chicago to prepare for trial on charges of conspiring to defame name of his divorced wife. (Story on page 1.)

DECLINES BID. Gov. Blaine of Wisconsin won't attend inauguration of President Coolidge.

PLAN WORLD'S EXPOSITION FOR WOMEN. Left to right: Miss Ethel Peyeser, Mrs. Ida Clyde Clarke, Mrs. Medill McCormick, Mrs. James Harvey, and Mrs. Hard. They met in New York. Exposition will be held in Chicago in April.

THE HOME JUSSERAND LEFT BARE. Emile Daeschner, new French ambassador, isn't living in this, the official French residence in Washington, D. C., as his predecessor took all the furniture back to France.

BUCKING THE STORM. Mail train, on the New York Central lines attempts to plow through huge snow drifts at Syracuse, N. Y. The picture was taken last Friday when all trains in the east were hours behind schedule time.

WINS AND LOSES. John Sullivan, who in 1919 escaped from County jail, was ahead in dice game when fight started. He is shown being taken to Bridewell hospital. (Story on page 5.)

PLANS FLIGHT. Lieut. Roy Darling who will carry anti-diphtheria serum to Nome, Alaska in airplane.

LIKE A FLASH. Catherine O'Brien of the Avondale playground wins the girls' race at the annual ice Derby held yesterday by the Opal A. A. (Story on page 22.)

NOT YET FORGOTTEN. Lowell Smith, commander of the round the world flight, receives a splendid airplane as the gift of L. C. Brand, millionaire of southern California. Smith is at right.
